NOE TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Announcements Split Long Ranks

ALLEN AT FIRST EXPRESSES DOUBT OF GENUINENESS

Governor Closets Self With Groups Of Associates For Parley

SEEN AS BOMB-SHELL

Two Give Statements After All-Night Conferences At Hotel

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—The political machine left by the late Senator Huey P. Long was split wide open today by announcements of Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe for governor and Wade O. Martin, public service commissioner, for the United States senate, in the January election.

The announcements dropped like bomb-shells in the ranks over the state and threw the statehouse into a panic. Governor O. K. Allen, who had said the state ticket would be chosen at a caucus to be called by him, would not believe they were genuine announcements.

The governor closeted himself in his office with a group of his associates and discussed the announcements feverishly. He could not conceive of Noe and Martin taking such steps without his sanction.

Noe and Martin joined the governor's conference. They had driven from New Orleans to Baton Rouge this morning.

Ellender In Bed

Allen J. Ellender, confined to his bed at Houma with a cold, said he had not heard of the announcements, but had nothing to say. Ellender had been prominently mentioned as a gubernatorial candidate and until Noe made his statement he was regarded as standing about equally as strong in the organization.

Martin had been just about selected to run for the unexpired term of the late senator, but the statements accompanying his announcement indicated that he would offer for the regular six-year term beginning in January, 1937.

The announcements came after an all-night conference in the Roosevelt hotel, attended by Judge John B. Fournet, of the state supreme court, the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, "share-the-wealth" organizer, Martin and Noe, and others, including Fred Dent, husband of the registrar of the state land office, and John Land, Jr., son of the associate justice of the state supreme court.

Both Noe and Martin announced they would run on the track left by the slaying of Huey Long, including the "share-the-wealth" program. Noe named three planks of a platform, "the plan of progress of Huey P. Long, the share-the-wealth" platform, and honest business administration of the affairs of the state.

Allen Put On Spot

The announcements placed Governor Allen on the spot. Noe claimed he had Allen's endorsement and the Rev. Mr. Smith said in a supplemental statement, that "upon hearing an expression on the part of our governor that these men were preferable to him I readily assured them of my endorsement."

But Governor Allen expressed complete surprise at the announcements and last night Long leaders had said only Gov. Allen was authorized to make announcements.

With the announcements out, it would be embarrassing to the caucus to attempt to have them withdraw if it wished to. At present the Long faction was torn asunder but a mighty

Jules Cambon, Former Ambassador, Succumbs

VEVEY, Switzerland, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Jules Cambon, 90, former French ambassador to Washington and Berlin, and one of France's "elder statesmen," died today.

The diplomat drifted slowly into unconsciousness at midnight and died at 4 a.m., with his son and daughter at the bedside.

Cambon served five years in Washington and seven in Berlin. He served in Washington during the Spanish-American war and served Spain as a negotiator for peace. He left Berlin upon the outbreak of the World war.

In the post-war era, he administered a large bank and various corporations, building up a fortune once reputed to yield an income of about a million francs a year.

He was married to the former Mlle. Eugenie LaFosse.

BOYCOTT AGAINST ITALY BELIEVED BRITAIN'S PLAN

Such An Act Might Be Regarded By Mussolini As War Move

(By Associated Press)

Great Britain's increasing concentration of fighting ships in the Mediterranean—a concentration which is even calling warships from its West Indies fleet—was linked in the opinion of many delegates to the League of Nations with suggestions for an economic boycott of Italy in case that nation attacks Ethiopia.

Certain delegates said they believed Premier Mussolini might regard such a boycott as a virtual act of war; particularly in view of the possibility of a naval blockade being undertaken to enforce such a boycott.

Within Great Britain, a political party crisis was precipitated by the government attitude that the League of Nations' covenent must be upheld.

Heads of the labor party were convoked in an "emergency meeting" on the question of whether Lord Ponsonby and George Lansbury, the party's leaders in the houses of lords and commons, should be permitted to quit their posts because of their pacifism in view of the fact that the Trades Unions council and the party endorsed the application of sanctions against an aggressor nation.

The Ethiopian government was stated by an adviser to Emperor Haile Selassie as considering it had done everything possible to avert war and that from now the question of peace rested with Italy.

Report Prepared

The Italo-Ethiopian committee of the League of Nations prepared a report suggesting the controversy between Italy and Ethiopia could be settled by the appointment of foreign specialists, to be approved by Emperor Haile Selassie, to supervise police and

Roosevelt Launches Florida Canal Work

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today pressed a telegraph key at 1 p.m., eastern standard time, in the study room of his family home here starting the preliminary work on the Florida canal to connect the Atlantic ocean and the Gulf of Mexico across the northern part of the state.

Mr. Roosevelt used the historic gold nuggett covered key board employed by presidents on such occasions from the time William Howard Taft used this key in starting work in Alaska. It was contacted with the wires by "Doc" Smithers, veteran White House telegrapher who has set up the wire facilities for such events from the time Mr. Taft first used the key board.

Bank Books Are Studied For Motive In Quadruple Killing

VICTIM CALLS POLICE

Drinks Coffee And Ends Own Life After Officers Summoned

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Bank books showing deposits of approximately $30,000 were scanned by police today in their efforts to find motives which led Charles Russell Geary, 43, to kill his brother, his two uncles by marriage and then take his own life.

The triple murder and suicide were discovered early today after a man had telephoned police headquarters to tell Patrolman Patrick McNamara, at the police switchboard:

"Send police in a hurry to 938 South 20th street."

"What's the matter?" asked the startled McNamara.

"There are three murders and a suicide," replied the man on the phone.

"What do you mean?" asked the policeman.

"I just killed three people."

The caller then hung up.

Two minutes later police broke down the door of the second floor apartment and found the bodies of four men, three of them sprawled in the kitchen and the fourth lying on a divan in the sun parlor. The lights were out and the doors were locked.

The body of John S. Geary, 42, brother of Charles, was lying near a window. A few feet away lay Orlando Levan, 60. Near a door leading to the living room was Orlando's brother, Benjamin, 55.

Charles Geary was stretched out on a couch in the sun parlor, a sawed off shotgun at his feet. He had been

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The story of Evelyn Hoey and her death in the lonely farm retreat of Henry H. Rogers, Jr., will reach a coroner's jury tonight.

Deputy Coroner Harvey Cox picked six West Chester jurors to hear testimony about the 25-year-old torch singer's visit to the oil heir's country place and how a bullet through the head killed her in a bedroom there last Wednesday night.

He took the jury through the old Dutch farmhouse yesterday in preparation for the inquest in the Chester county courthouse at 6:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

Rogers, who inherited part of his father's Standard Oil millions, bought the house and turned it into an occasional home and a museum for his collection of weapons, will be an inquest witness.

He and William J. Kelley, a movie cameraman who was another guest last week, are each under $2,500 bond to appear at the hearing.

BASTROP, La., Sept. 19.—(Special)—Work on the construction of a national park for Morehouse parish, which was approved in Washington several weeks ago, will begin on or about October 1, it was announced here Wednesday by Senator Leo Terzia.

ROOSEVELT MOVE IS CHALLENGE TO TALMADGE POWER

President Will Open Renomination Campaign In Atlanta

GEORGIAN CRITICIZES

President Is Frequent Visitor To Warm Springs Resort

ATLANTA, Sept. 19.—(AP)—A challenge to the political strength of Governor Eugene Talmadge was seen here today in the announcement that President Roosevelt would open his southern campaign for renomination with a speech in Atlanta.

Talmadge, Democratic governor of Georgia and bitter critic of the president, was carrying on his fight against Mr. Roosevelt in a series of speeches in the middle west when the Atlanta engagement was announced.

The Atlanta Constitution today said Mr. Roosevelt would speak here late in November on a specific date to be announced later. At that time the president will be on his annual visit to Warm Springs.

It was added that in accepting the invitation extended by the Georgia congressional delegation, Mr. Roosevelt said the speech would be delivered some time during Thanksgiving week.

At Hyde Park, N. Y., aides of the president said there was no immediate indication of an announcement by Mr. Roosevelt on his candidacy in Georgia during his fall visit to Warm Springs.

Grant Field Is Site

Senators Richard B. Russell, Jr., and Walter F. George of this state are in charge of arrangements for the occasion. They expect the speech to be delivered at Grant field, Georgia Tech's football stadium, which will seat more than 50,000 persons.

Another Resolution Endorses Taxing Of Outstanding Bonds

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Moving rapidly toward nominations of national officers later today, the 36th annual encampment of Veterans of Foreign Wars adopted a resolution asking congress to investigate shipments of scrap iron from the United States so it "will not be used to slay the youth of America should there be another war."

The resolution, submitted by the department of Massachusetts, asked congress to provide statutes to investigate shipments, "particularly to Japan," to discover whether they are being used for munitions manufacture.

The usage of metal shipped from this country to other countries should be "unquestionably ascertained," the encampment voted.

Another resolution adopted endorses a proposed constitutional

WADE O. MARTIN TO BE CANDIDATE FOR U. S. SENATE

Will Seek Term Beginning After Long's Period Expires

ELLENDER IS SILENT

Statements Are Issued By Several Supporting Candidacies

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Lieut.-Gov. James A. Noe of Monroe today announced his candidacy for governor in the January primaries on a pledge to follow "the plan of progress of Huey P. Long."

At the time, Wade O. Martin, public service commissioner, announced his candidacy on the Long platform for the United States senate, although his statement did not specify it, his associates said the announcement was for the full six-year term starting in January, 1937. To date, there have been no announcements for the unexpired term which Long left at his assassination.

Both announcements were given out here after a lengthy conference in the Roosevelt hotel last night with the Rev. Gerald L. K. Smith, national organizer for Long's share-the-wealth clubs, who had served notice on the organization that any state administration slate "must be pleasing to the share-the-wealth movement."

Smith and Associate Justice John B. Fournet of the state supreme court, another of Long's close associates, issued statements endorsing Noe and Martin.

Lieut.-Gov. Noe said in his announcement that his candidacy had been endorsed by Governor O. K. Allen, titular head of the Huey P. Long machine since the senator's death last week.

Statement By Noe

Noe's announcement read:

"To the citizens of Louisiana:

"For many months my friends throughout the state have urged me to become a candidate for the office of governor of the state of Louisiana on the Huey P. Long ticket. And for the past few months and more especially for the last few weeks, the number urging my candidacy has rapidly increased.

"Since the death of our beloved leader, I have contacted every state and city leader I have been able to reach. During this time I have also been in communication with the governor and his advisors and they, too, have urged my candidacy.

"Wednesday afternoon I talked with Governor Allen over long distance telephone in the presence of a group of my friends, and he again endorsed my candidacy and said he would rather surrender the office of governor into my hands for the next four years than any man he knew.

"For this reason and because of the insistence of my many friends, I hereby announce that I will be the candidate for the governorship of Louisiana at the January primary and pledge myself to the following principles:

"(a) The plan of progress of Huey P. Long.

"(b)—The share-the-wealth platform.

"(c) An honest business administration of the affairs of the state.

(Signed "JAMES A. NOE,
"Lieutenant-Governor."

Martin Gives Statement

Martin's announcement for the United States senate read:

"To the citizens of Louisiana:

News Boy Gives Away Many Valuable Coins

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Jacob Gabler, 15-year-old news boy, knew today there were two kinds of coin collectors.

He was one kind; he collected them for his papers. And there was the other kind who would have rewarded him richly for the sackful of old pieces he found yesterday in the fireplace of a house that was being razed, but gave away because he thought they were "phoney."

His treasure was made up of 50-cent and one-dollar coins of out-of-date series, the latest date of the lot being 1862. One gold piece was stamped 1860 and there was a cent piece as "big as a buck." Jake kept four dollars of his find for himself, dividing the rest of it up with others, figuring it was definitely in the "plug" class.

SOCIETY

EVE C. BRADFORD, Society Editor
Office Phone 4800. Res. Phone 1404

The most beautiful time of the entire year in the southland is now at hand. The golden sunshine tempered by a chill toward evening, stirs the gypsy blood and the family clamors to cook out of doors. The barbecue pit in the secluded gardens of your own home is all right but it takes the glowing camp fire silhouetted against the towering pines in some remote place far from human habitation really to set the gypsy blood afire.

For the perfect camp fire, where corn is roasted in the ear, it is necessary to get a deep bed of coals. To roast corn in the husk, string the ears on a heavy wire, threading through the heavy end of the corn. Pull this chain of corn into a circle, fastening the ends of wire securely together. By this time the fire should be burned down to a great bed of coals. Open the coals and in the very center bury the corn. Heap the coals back and let roast just thirty minutes. The potatoes are buried around the edge in the hot ashes.

After the corn is buried the heavier limbs that have not burned out are piled back over the fire, and these keep the coals alive and furnish heat to roast the wieners or hamburg or chunks of lamb on skewers.

By the time the wieners and rolls are finished the corn and potatoes will be ready. Serve with plenty of butter, salt and pepper.

With a long-handled rake, if you have one, or a long-forked stick rake the coals away and pull the corn from the fire. Remove from wire and serve in husks with butter and salt. Each ear is put on a flexible paper plate which acts as a shield and prevents many a grease spot on coat or frock.

If you have steak try kabobs. Cut sirloin steak three-fourths of an inch thick into squares of about one and one-half inches. Put a thin slice of onion on each piece and wrap a slice of bacon around the whole. Fasten with a toothpick. Put on the end of a long green stick or your wiener fork, using one or two according to appetite. Broil over a deep bed of coals.

If barbecued meat is preferred, try digging a narrow pit two feet deep with stones arranged around the top on which the broiler rests.

The wood fire should be built early enough before the meal so that it will die down to palpitating coals before the cookery begins. As a rule, it is best to allow one and one-half hours for this process. During the process of cooking, the meat must be basted either with its own juices or with a sauce, or with both. This can be done with long sticks on one end of which is tied a roll of clean cloth. The meat must be turned so that it will broil evenly.

Here is a sauce that comes from a Colorado cowboy famed years ago for his skill in barbecuing meats: Two pounds butter, two and one-half quarts water, one cup vinegar, one and one-half tablespoons dry mustard, one-fourth cup sugar, three tablespoons salt, three tablespoons chili powder, one teaspoon red pepper, two tablespoons Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons tobasco sauce, three tablespoons black pepper, four tablespoons paprika, one onion chopped fine, one clove garlic.

Mix ingredients together and boil gently for 30 minutes. This makes a very large quantity, for a large party of guests. It is easiest to prepare the sauce at home, although it can be cooked over the coals before the meat is broiled.

Almost any kind of meat can be barbecued, although beef and chickens are the general favorites. Thick steaks and chops of all kinds are delicious, as are roasts of beef, mutton and lamb. Either broilers or fryers can be used. The broilers are cooked whole, but the large fowls are cut in halves.

The Sodality of the Blessed Virgin held its first meeting of the new school year Tuesday morning at St. Matthew's school. The meeting was called to order and opened with a prayer by Rev. Father Walsh, who also spoke a few inspirational words to the members. Nominations were held and the following officers then elected: prefect, Mary Ann Wilds; vice prefect, Rose Danna; secretary, Magdalen Amman; treasurer, Claire Virginia Cornett; councillors, Della Courville, Catherine Rivoire and Claudia Ann Cage.

Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Hartman and children are enjoying a motor trip in Texas, where they are visiting friends and relatives in Houston. A portion of their vacation will be spent motoring in south Louisiana.

The Council of Social Agencies will hold its September meeting at noon Friday, September the twentieth, at the Christian church, according to an announcement by Miss Bernice Wright, secretary. Mr. Walter F. Craddock, an official of the federal transient bureau, will talk on the problems confronting Monroe when the transient bureau here closes. There will also be reports from the various committees on the wholesale toy shop.

Miss Leona Biggar has returned from Alexandria, where she attended the reception commemorating the fourteenth anniversary of Court Gibbons Catholic Daughters of America.

While the members and guests enjoyed a delicious repast, they were entertained with talks from the various guests, many of whom recounted outstanding incidents in the life of Court Gibbons, Miss Biggar said. Miss Zilda Lauve, grand regent, introduced the speakers, and also took occasion to announce that the election of the Rev. Father John Vandegaer as chaplain of the senior court had been approved by Most Rev. Bishop Desmond. This bit of news was welcomed by the members. Father Vandegaer graciously responded, accepting his duties, and adding his many good wishes for a successful year.

The announcement of the Rev. Father M. Broussard's acceptance of the duties of chaplain of the junior organization was also considered as glad tidings. Father Broussard responded to the announcement in his usual pleasing manner. The Rev. Father Olinger, past chaplain, now pastor of St. Anthony's church, Bunkie, was present, and his interesting talk held the attention of the assembly as he related many things of interest. Father J. Morrisey and Father Roy Aycock each gave interesting talks and extended many good wishes.

The Ouachita river, beautiful at any time of the year, is at its very best these glorious days of early autumn. Fortunate indeed are those who can drift down the stream on pleasure craft viewing the overhanging banks now glorified with the crimson leaves of the gum trees.

Tuesday night members of the Workers' council of the First Methodist church were guests of Mrs. James A. Noe on board the spacious Noe's Ark. A delectable supper was served on the upper deck at sundown. Mrs. S. M. Collins presided and plans were presented by Rev. H. L. Johns, presiding elder of the Monroe district, for the standard training school to be held on the twentieth of October.

Enjoying this delightful evening were Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Scott, Rev. and Mrs. H. L. Johns, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Collins, Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Mrs. Jewel McQuiller, Ouachita parish home demonstration agent, is striving to develop a greater appreciation of gardens and home beautification among the members of home demonstration clubs. With this thought in view, Monroe's most beautiful gardens will be visited this fall. The first garden tour was enjoyed Tuesday afternoon, at which time the gardens of the G. B. ENEMY'S KISS

by Evelyn M. Winch

SYNOPSIS: Alison Rede has returned from school in Switzerland to meet her father at a house he is supposed to have taken outside London. But the house is dark and deserted; while washing up after her journey Alison is horrified to see a hairless face peering at her. She slams the door, and the intruder slithers away. But her electric torch is going dead. She decides to make a break for the outside door.

Chapter Two

NEW DANGER

COMING in, exploring this empty house for any sign of her father, Alison had passed two pairs of stairs. One leading off the long passage which ran straight from the front hall, was evidently the front stairs to the bedrooms; the other, cut off by a baize door, came down outside the pantry door and ran directly outside the bathroom.

An upper baize door with a spring to it cut this part of the house off from the front part, too. Those last three faint creaks had seemed to come from the front passage. Could she creep down these backstairs unseen and gain the window and the road? Safer, perhaps, to slip down the ivy—unless, guessing her intention, he had gone to wait down there in the dark road!

Snatching at her courage, Alison released the door. Cautiously, trembling, she opening it a little way and peered out. The faint glow of the torch showed her an empty passage, a white bedroom door, a tiny square of window with the rain pouring down it and the far baize door, shut. The way was clear!

For no more than a second she listened, breathless, but now it seemed as if the whole house held its breath too. There was no sound at all, even the mice were still. And there was the stairway, close at hand, dark but empty.

Alison ran.

She had reached the turn of the stairs when the torch went out. . . .

The black dark seemed to hit her, knocking out her breath; it was like going blind. But her hand tightened on the stair-rail and she went on, running, two steps at a time.

She suffered, in those few seconds, the most primitive of all emotions—a fear fine-drawn to the point of battle, in which every nerve and muscle is strained to the utmost, ready to fight. Her foot found the lower passage level with a jerk that hurt.

CREAK! Pit-a-pat. . . .

A thin spear of light cut the darkness ahead, showing her the half-glass pantry door on her right, the lower baize door ahead—a beam of light split by the banisters above.

It was coming—running along the bathroom passage, chasing her down the stairs!

Alison made a dart. The pantry door was not quite shut, it gave; a loose board creaked as she sprang through and the beam of light overhead went off abruptly.

She slammed the door violently; throwing herself against it, she felt for a key and found none; she stretched up her right arm towards the wall to brace herself to take the strain.

She reached up her hand with all four fingers and the thumb spread and found them pressing flat against a man's face!

Her nerve broke.

In the recoil she screamed a hideous, shrill, bubbling shriek which rose and echoed wildly through the house as she tumbled for the door handle in a crazy effort to escape. A scream cut sharply at its highest point as a man's hand closed expertly upon her face, the thumb and forefinger pinching her nostrils shut while the palm blocked her mouth.

Alison gave a gurgle and fainted.

"That's better. . . ."

She became conscious of a very firm arm holding her tight, of rough tweed scraping her cheek and the rapid beating of her own heart.

"Oh!"

She tried to sit up. The flickering blue bead of light came from a lantern that was standing on the floor; by it she could see in faint outline an enamelled table under the window, a bunch of dirty brooms, all tied together, leaning drunkenly against a sink.

MEMORY came back and she gave a gasp. Shrinking, she writhed from the arms which held her and slid free on hands and knees. Whirling round found herself looking up into a pair of bright and quizzical blue eyes.

"All right?"

A pair of broad, tweed covered shoulders, large friendly features, pleasantly red-tanned, dark hair that grew crisply off a wide forehead, keen eyes light as a bucket of sea-water—this was no grisly ghost but a mere man, reassuringly human and alive! Alison drew a deep sigh of relief and grew exceedingly indignant.

"What exactly do you think you're doing?"

It is not easy to show dignity on all fours but she did her best.

He countered with an innocent "What is going on here?"

"Considering you tried to kill me—"

"I didn't!"

"You tried to choke me!"

"Only to stop you yelling!"

"You'd absolutely no right to frighten me like that!"

She struggled to her feet. She was still hot and panting with rage. Her round, childish face was flushed, her dark grey eyes sparkled with anger, although her soft mouth trembled and her knees felt like warm wax.

"What're you doing here anyway?" she demanded; charged him fiercely with "You must've climbed in through that window!"

"I did." He was standing, too, now, smiling at her. "So did you for that matter!"

"That's got nothing to do with it," said Alison haughtily. He had nice teeth when he smiled and two attractive dents beside his chin.

"Do you always come in that way and then rush round screaming?" His voice was deep and tinged with suppressed laughter.

"I didn't rush," she began, then changed her mind. No use bandying words—particularly as he was getting the best of the exchange. She turned purposefully to the door.

"Where are you going?" Quickly.

"To ring the police!"

She wrenched the door open. The lantern went out with a snap and the black dark closed on her like a swung curtain.

"Oh!" Involuntarily she gave a cry, clutching at the man.

"All right. I'm here." His arm closed firmly round her. "But listen. You're not going through that door till you tell me what's up."

Tomorrow, Alison does a little explaining.

AT THE MOVIES

AT THE PARAMOUNT—Remember the brat in "Bright Eyes," who imitated a machine gun, told tales on Shirley Temple, tried to run her down with a doll carriage and proved a complete annoyance?

She's Jane Withers, a chubby, independent little girl of nine, about so high, with dark brown hair and blue-gray eyes, who has proven herself another one of Fox Film's sensational discoveries.

Jane's latest picture, "Ginger," which comes today to the Paramount theater, has been proclaimed by New York and Hollywood as a great beginning for what looks like a great career.

With Jane Withers and Jackie Searl, "Ginger" boasts the world's champion small girl and boy heavies of the screen. There's a swell clash with a world of comedy when these youngsters get together, but—and it ought to be a pleasant surprise to theater audiences—they're not heavies in this picture.

When Jane, the little, independent, self-reliant product of Ninth Avenue, is taken into the Park Avenue home of the pampered Jackie Searl, trouble and lots of fun follow.

"Ginger" was made under the close supervision of Sol M. Wurtzel, who also produced "Bright Eyes," and he personally selected the cast in which O. P. Heggie and Katherine Alexander are featured. Lewis Seiler directed the film.

AT THE CAPITOL—The happiest picture of Shirley Temple's career, "Curly Top," comes today to the screen of the Capitol theater.

In "Curly Top," a charming story of a little girl who captures the heart of a lonely bachelor and makes both their dreams come true, Shirley has two new songs to sing and several new and intricate dance routines for audience approval.

In this Fox Film comedy-drama, John Boles is cast as a bachelor who adopts Shirley and her big sister, Rochelle Hudson. His generosity takes them from the drab and dreary atmosphere of an orphanage to the sunny summer surroundings of a palatial home in Southampton. There the romance of Boles and Rochelle Hudson flourishes under the childish guidance of little Shirley who sings, dances and laughs her way into their hearts.

Shirley is really happy in this picture, for she has the opportunity of displaying her full talents when she sings "Animal Crackers in My Soup" and "When I Grow Up."

Shirley is not the only one to sing in this joyful film. John Boles sings "It's All So New To Me" and "Curly Top," while Rochelle Hudson surprises by singing for the first time, "The Simple Things in Life."

Ray Henderson, America's ace song writer, wrote the melodies for all the song numbers for "Curly Top," which was produced by Winfield Sheehan and directed by Irving Cummings.

FOUR SUBURBAN MOTHERS START THEIR WINTER SEWING, and my, oh my, is it work to thread those needles! But all's well for these little ladies for they won't have to rethread very often. Know why? The teacher of today, with her knowledge of child psychology, is more sympathetic, possesses a keener discernment of reasons behind the behavior of children and a quick insight into the possibilities in the child. She does not indict a child for stupidity when she recognizes an inferiority complex or lack of confidence. She is better equipped, too, to encourage and explain.

For almost the first time in history, according to Olive Roberts Barton, the school child is recognized as a human being, not a target for the arrow of pedagogy. He has to conform to a system, it is true, but the molding has become less painful—decidedly more purposeful.

"This is a result of two things, the teacher's new point of view and innovations of method in dealing with the over or under-average pupil.

"Yet the old war goes on in spite of efforts to cross the fence and the earnest attempts made by parent-teacher associations everywhere.

"Because the teacher is compelled by circumstances to view the mind of the child, and the parent his heart (emotions).

"Not that the teacher lacks feeling. Quite the contrary. But she is preeminently the representative of learning and non-personal authority which is as necessary in child development as those softer concessions of home life.

"She cannot be as emotional as we would have her. If she were she would cease to represent what she stands for. In short, her interest dare not be too personal or too motherly (except in the first class, where the transition from mother's arms needs to be made gradually), because it would be ruinous.

"Of course the stiff, starched poker-face is not the ideal teacher. Absolutely not. But kindness, cheeriness and helpfulness have to be somewhat apart from real feelings."

Mrs. J. B. Vaughan entertained members of her Tuesday bridge tournament and, as customary, extended many charming little courtesies. Ices and a variety of open-faced sandwiches and coffee were served at the conclusion of the bridge games to Mmes. BOYCOTT AGAINST ITALY BELIEVED BRITAIN'S PLAN other functions of the Ethiopian government.

An Italian government spokesman said this report gave no occasion "for Italy to change her attitude of pessimism or skepticism."

The war scare had world-wide repercussions which included a stock exchange boom in Tokyo and public manifestations of sympathy with Ethiopia.

Commenting on the situation, the noted British dramatist, John Drinkwater, suggested the statesmen of the League of Nations "emulate Abraham Lincoln by following a steadfast and perfectly strong course of action, yet keeping a perfectly open mind."

Britain Building Royal Air Forces

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—An authoritative source asserted today that the British air ministry was building up the Royal Air Forces at strategic Mediterranean stations for any eventuality which might arise from the present dispute between Italy and Ethiopia.

At the same time, the British admiralty list showed that the admiralty, having virtually depleted its home fleet to reinforce naval stations in the Mediterranean, now is calling on its American West Indies fleet for additional support.

In contrast with these naval maneuvers, which now have been made more or less public, the heavy air reinforcements — likewise officially characterized as precautionary—will be kept secret.

A concentration of fighting, bombing, and observation planes, hinted as having taken place in the vicinity of the Suez canal, Egypt, Gibraltar, and the Sudan, is expected to be referred to in general terms in a forthcoming announcement by the air ministry. The announcement is not expected to give details.

British strategists explained that the element of uncertainty is most important in the present uncertain situation and said there was no disposition to weaken the British position by premature disclosures.

Keep Italy Guessing

One informed source said that the present military policy of Great Britain is to keep the Italians guessing until it becomes perfectly clear what is going to happen in the Mediterranean's potential power keg.

This source explained that ship movements cannot be kept a secret long because the very movement of ships en masse cannot be disguised. With airplanes, however, it is another story. The speed, size, and maneuver ability contribute greatly to secret concentrations.

Certain diplomats said they regarded the airplane movements as of the gravest significance, not as a threat to Italy but as a most distinct evidence that Great Britain is prepared to protect her interests.

"Anyone minimizing the possibilities of the present situation," said one authority, "is simply blinding himself to the real facts."

The foreign office, meanwhile, kept in close contact with Geneva, awaiting official indication as to how Premier Mussolini would regard the League compromise plan. There was no immediate indication of optimism in Geneva, although in some quarters a faint hope that the situation would shortly ease was expressed.

Lloyd George Says War Is Week Ahead

BRADFORD, Eng., Sept. 19.—(AP)—David Lloyd George, Great Britain's World war prime minister, declared today: "We are within a week or a fortnight of war—a war of aggression."

The Welshman, addressing a regional conference of the Council for Action for Peace and Reconstruction, continued:

"It will be as great a war of aggression as the attack of Germany upon Belgium. Quite frankly, I am alarmed. It seems to me the world is heading for a very great catastrophe."

Over the week-end, Lloyd George attacked the international peacemakers for hanging back while Italy went ahead with preparations for war. Today he renewed his demand to know why there had been "incomprehensible and quite inexcusable" delays.

Black-Draught's Refreshing Relief

Don't neglect constipation! Take Black-Draught at the first sign you need something to help restore regular elimination.

"I feel like Black-Draught is a mighty good medicine and don't know how I would get along without it," writes Mrs. W. D. Jowers, of Minden, La. "I take it for constipation and biliousness. When I let myself get constipated, I feel dull, sluggish and drowsy; can't settle down to my work for that tired feeling. I take a small dose of Black-Draught at bedtime for several nights and soon feel fine. If I am bothered with a tight feeling, or gas on the stomach, I take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals."

Black-Draught costs less than most medicines for constipation.

state and surrounding states are being talked to transport the Democratic faithful to hear their party chieftain.

Georgia's governor came to an open break with the president several months ago when he harshly criticized New Deal policies and declared the renomination of Mr. Roosevelt "would be a calamity."

Since then he has hurled his criticism on every occasion. In speeches in various parts of the country he has urged the Democrats to select another standard bearer next year if they wish to escape defeat.

Criticizes In Illinois

Last night he carried his criticism in a speech in Illinois and today he was booked for another at Des Moines, Iowa.

The Georgia governor inaugurated his present trip in New Orleans before the Veterans of Foreign Wars, where he lauded the late Senator Huey P. Long. Since the death of the Louisiana senator, Talmadge has loomed as a leading opponent of Mr. Roosevelt's renomination.

Georgians have long regarded the president as a citizen because of his numerous visits to Warm Springs, where he had been coming for several years for infantile paralysis treatment. They showed their regard for him by rolling up a big majority in every county in the presidential primary of 1932.

In November of that year Mr. Roosevelt was given a record breaking majority over President Herbert Hoover.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech here is expected to be the opening campaign for this state's vote at the 1936 Democratic convention. Governor Talmadge has refrained from stating whether he will enter the primary against the president, but many of his followers expect him to do so.

In the hands of the Talmadge-dominated state committee rests the decision of whether Georgia will hold a presidential preferential primary. That has been the custom in the state for several years, but the committee could name the delegates without a primary. This, however, would upset party precedent and undoubtedly cause a contesting delegation to be sent to the national convention.

amendment making it possible to tax all federal, state and municipal bonds now outstanding. The resolution, entered by the Wisconsin department, estimated there were $45,000,000,000 in bonds now outstanding.

A resolution submitted to the convention by the New Jersey department, urging passage of a bill legalizing a national lottery signalled a heated discussion by the delegates but it was disapproved.

After an executive session on organization affairs the convention was expected to take up a resolution sponsored by the William McAllister post No. 1608 of Miami, Fla., asking an investigation of the Labor day hurricane which wiped out World war veterans work camps on the Florida keys with loss of about 300 men.

Legislature Will Be Control Fight Center

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—While the whooping and the shouting in the approaching campaign for the January elections will be over the governorship, the actual battle for political control of the state of Louisiana will be in the fight for members of the state legislature.

The side that controls the state legislature will control the politics of the state for the next four years.

If the Longs win they will be in a position to keep Huey Long's dictatorial laws on the statute books and the succeeding governor will have more power than any other governor in the United States ever dreamed of. With other elected state officials in agreement, he will have the power to control the appointment of any non-elective officer in the state. He will control absolutely the election machinery of the state, the police force, the state militia, the taxation powers and even the school teachers. He will be a czar.

On the other hand if the anti-Longs should win they will have the power to repeal any or all of the Huey Long laws and return the state to the political situation in which it stood before 1928 when Long started on his political ascent as governor of the state.

Both Consider Carefully

For these reasons each side is giving careful consideration to this side of the election. The Long organization is working thoroughly among its parish organizations while the anti-Longs have been building up their parish positions.

During it all the Square Deal association has worked steadily and quietly toward having anti-Long members of the state senate and house of representatives elected. They refuse to comment and even refuse to admit membership in the organization but they are working in the parishes.

It is reasonable to assume that Huey Long will be the dominant issue in the campaign. Some groups of the Long organization want the Long issue buried but the dominant leaders insist upon campaigning from the grave of Long.

The opposition was prepared to accept the challenge on the belief that people of Louisiana were weary of the Long dictatorship and of being ordered about by an army of state police. The Long organization claims that Huey Long was a hero to the people and in death will continue to exercise political influence.

The campaign will open soon with all the weapons of political warfare trundled on the field. The Longs will fight with their backs to the wall and the antis will be forced to charge the battlements.

Ignorance Is Not Always Bliss

Modern girls warned against placing themselves at the mercy of men, are apt to reply complacently: "I know how to take care of myself."

Oh yeah? What about that long list of young women who were overcome and mistreated by a young mechanic who had been making a practice for years of taking young women into isolated places and overpowering and mistreating them? He might still be at that kind of thing—and he might have kept it up for years more—had he not accidentally killed one of his victims. No one knows how many girls are attacked in this manner. Like the victims of this young man, they are kept silent by fear of publicity and disgrace.

The other day a 19-year-old violin player in a church choir attacked and murdered the little daughter of his pastor.

A mother who was told that she should bring the foregoing instances to the notice of her little girl—and should make her aware constantly of the danger to which her sex subjects her—replied that she did not want her little girl thinking about "such things."

Quite so. But if her little girl had to be in a place where rattlesnakes abounded, would she not want the child to be on the lookout for rattlesnakes?—or had she rather keep the little girl's mind off so unlovely a subject as rattlesnakes and have her run the risk of being fatally bitten?

"One thing I know," declared a self-contained young woman, "you can't fool me about men! I can look at a man and tell if he has the devil in him."

That's what you think, sister. But the trouble with your belief is that nobody knows, not even the man himself, when the devil will get into him.

There is one fact which most persons—particularly women—never get through their heads; and that is this:

There is such a thing as temporary sex insanity—and it may strike without warning, like a bird of prey darting from the sky onto its quarry.

And there are fiends in human form. And there are decent fellows who suddenly become possessed by fiends.

Girls, big and little, should be taught and trained not to go unchaperoned into any situation that could possibly result disastrously to them.

Today in some circles chaperons are regarded as old-fashioned.

The chaperon idea was not somebody's absurd notion—it did not originate merely in the minds of sticklers for propriety. It was evolved after centuries of tragic experiences and experiments. The chaperon is simply a common-sense means of common-sense protection for girls.

There is none so ignorant as she who thinks she knows, but does not know.

Maybe She'll Be President

In the town of Creston, Ia., there is a girl baby who at the tender age of twenty months has a working vocabulary of six hundred words—a phenomenal accomplishment when it is considered that the average vocabulary of a child of two years is about three hundred words. However, the conclusion that this facility in acquiring words and using them understandingly is a mark of extraordinary intelligence is yet to be proved.

During the campaign of Alfred Smith against Herbert Hoover for the presidency, a prominent supporter of the Democratic candidate reported to the newspapers one morning that his child, aged 15 months, had distinctly remarked at breakfast: "Al Smith will be elected." At that time this broke all the records for precocity in speech, and the proud father hoped that out of the mouth of his babe had come a message of oracular significance. It did indeed prove true, only, as events turned out, it foretold Mr. Smith's election as honorary custodian of the menagerie in Central Park—showing that modern oracles are as ambiguous as those of the antique world.

As we look over a list of the six hundred words used by the Creston child, the nouns are found to be enormously in the majority. There is a fair sprinkling of adjectives, but verbs and other parts of speech count for little in her communications. The little Creston child has "groceries," "magazine" and "rhubarb" in her list. But the chances are that she has never spoken any of the three more than once or twice. The half dozen negatives, on the other hand, which are nearly the easiest to learn are also the most persistently used of all words, all through life.

In September

Adults think they have their troubles, and indubitably they do. They are hardly to be compared to the depths of desolation of the schoolboy in September. School begins too early. If it would hold off until the cold weather it would not be so bad. But in September—here is the problem for a boy in the country as a mid-western editor pictures it:

"There isn't a boy—a country boy at least—who doesn't know it is a crime against nature to shut him up in a schoolroom through September. There he sits, pretending to be absorbed in a textbook while the teacher looks his way, but with a mind miles away. Through the window he can see the woods down the valley where cool water rolls over stones made smooth through years of tumbling. He can see the towering top of the hill that marks the swimming hole. He can see the cow-path that winds over the hill in Deacon Stover's pasture and leads to the spot where perch and bullheads are waiting for a hook. Away off to the right he can see Jim Mercer pitching hay—Jim, who will not be in school before December—and he envies Jim."

Probably school boards and teachers, once young themselves, would do something about it if they did not know from their own experience that equally valid objections would be raised by youth in October, November, December or any other month of the year.

You can tell an important conservative in Washington. He is the one just promoted to a job that gives him nothing to do.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE

ONE OF THE WORLD'S HARDEST JOBS

Don't wonder why the farmer complains.

He doesn't complain nearly as much as he has a right to.

If you doubt that just try living for a while on a dirt farm and try to make it support you.

As for me, I farm in a suburban lot, one hundred feet wide and three hundred feet deep. I don't get my living off that farm. All I can do is to raise a little grass and a few onions and turnips, and I have a hard time trying to keep them growing.

Have you read about the dust storms, which almost literally take a man's farm away from him—that is, they scoop the dust along ahead of them and all the fertilizer the farmer has put into it for a long time is swept away.

If you have even a small place, say a couple of acres, you will have to get up early in the morning every day for weeks, and with a blazing torch burn out the big nests of tent caterpillars that form almost overnight.

If you are an orchardist, you never know when a violent gale will come along and you will find the next morning that the fruit trees you pruned and sprayed so often and so carefully have been toppled over by the high wind; and half of them are not worth setting up again, so torn are their branches.

The farmer's day begins when there is light enough to see, and continues, if he is industrious, till the fall of night. He has to read all manner of books about how to vanquish the various enemies that threaten his demesne.

And then, despite all he has learned, some new and venomous parasite may turn up and make waste of the whole establishment.

I am not a farmer, but I have lived on a farm and worked on one, I know something about the life of a farmer. It is not a happy one. But it has to be carried on.

Without the farmer the world cannot eat. And to be able to eat is still a prime necessity.

Before you jeer at the farmer and the delegations he sends to congress to help him, go out on a regular farm and stay there for a summer, doing everything the farmer does. I think you will be astonished.

But anyway, you will be healthier, for the life in the open air will supply you with oxygen.

"The policeman's life is not a happy one," sang Mr. Gilbert. He would have to dip far deeper into his vocabulary to describe the farmer's life.

Yet the farmer keeps at it, and because he does, you and I have our daily meals, and plenty of time to wonder why the farmer is forever complaining.

WITH BEAUTY NEAR

It may be just a bowl
Of roses near,
It may be but a plate
That I hold dear—

A plate of lovely ware,
That I admire,
In rare design of which
I never tire—

No matter what it is,
If I can know
Some beauty near, it means
Joy's added glow.

I can do menial tasks
More happily
If something beautiful
Is near to me.

FOR THIS, THEY SAY, MUST BE

If once, but once, I could defeat
That enemy life fears,
Time . . . time, relentless, that moves on,
Counts up the days and years;

If once, just once, I could turn back
The clock's stern hands, could go
My way regardless of the flight
Of hours, Time's ceasing know,

I would achieve a thing I long
Have wished for, but how vain
To dream, to think of it . . . Time must Go on, with sun and rain.

Time must go on its busy way,
And moments marching by
Must be recorded; this must be . . .
I do not know just why.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Brain trusters are not aghast at President Roosevelt's recent letter, so widely interpreted as a "move to the right" and as "reassuring to business." They do not feel that the president has deserted the New Deal. They have been puzzled, beyond a doubt, but the mystery to them was not as to the words of the president, but the general reaction to the words. Especially in the stock market boost which immediately followed.

Actually, of course, this stock market move was rather overplayed in most headlines. The market had been struggling up for several months. American Telephone, for example, had advanced from 25 to 30 points in the three months preceeding the president's utterance.

As the brain trusters see it, the president's letter to Roy W. Howard was a rather brilliant defense of the New Deal, its name and objectives, with the mild inference that the program was going to be held in abeyance for a while, so that business would be given a chance to show what it could do with TEMPORARY uncertainty removed.

It has been pointed out by Ex-Governor Joseph B. Sly, of Massachusetts, and others, that supreme court decisions just may upset the AAA amendments, the Guffey coal law, and the Wagner labor relations board. Then what?

But there is another phase, to which brain trusters, asked by this writer if they thought the president had let them down, call attention. This is taxes. The president pointed out in that very letter that the proper place to place taxes was on the wealthy, and on big corporations; on the latter, on the theory that the bigger they are the better able they are to stand the tax burden. He also referred again to one of his favorite subjects—the necesisty, as he sees it, of eliminating big corporation surpluses.

In his letter to Mr. Howard the president referred to these as "sterile accumulations." In his acceptance speech at Chicago, in 1932, he referred to them as "piled up surpluses." He has not changed his views one iota.

It is commonly accepted by even the most casual students of the fiscal affairs of the national government that taxes must be increased, and increased sharply, in the next few years. Even a tremendous advance in business, though it would yield a golden harvest to the federal treasury, will not obviate this necessity. Hence the president's views as to what form these taxes should take is one of the most interesting national questions possible, especially if he is to remain in complete mastery of the congress.

In his letter to Mr. Howard he points out that the small fellow, the consumer, has had his tax burdens disproportionately increased in the recent past. No one questions this. Processing taxes have boosted the cost of living for the small income family tremendously. The extra cent on letter postage, which is pure tax and not a postal charge, though its burdens business, also hits the little fellow.

But the obvious answer is that when more taxes are imposed, they will be placed on business—primarily on the big corporations. The bigger they are the bigger will be the burden.

It is no secret that the original sliding scale corporation income tax, as first announced and then disavowed, really carried the president's ideas. The top rate in that scale was 1 71-2 per cent. It is also not secret that various brain trusters, when they thought that particular scale was going to be put through, delivered heated opinions that it did not go far enough. One outstanding brain truster declared at a dinner party at that time that the sliding scale should go up to 25 per cent now, and should be raised later on.

So that altogether it is just flabbergasting to the brain truster that speculators or investors should have rushed in to buy stocks in big corporations following publication of the president's letter. They haven't figured out yet whether the stock market rise continued IN SPITE of the president's words, or just from "characteristic capitalistic stupidity."

METHODIST CHURCHES MAKE GOOD PROGRESS

Work accomplished by Methodist churches in Louisiana the past year is such as to exceed accomplishments in a similar period of time in past years. This was the announcement made after the holding of the mid-year meeting of the bishop and his cabinet in Shreveport this week.

Besides Bishop Dobbs, members of the cabinet included presiding elders of all Methodist districts of the state. The Monroe district was represented by Rev. H. L. Johns.

Plans for the coming conference were discussed and the work of Centenary college at Shreveport was given approval.

15 Years Ago

September 19, 1920

Rev. D. C. Atkinson, presiding elder of the Monroe district of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, will preach tomorrow morning and evening at the First Methodist church, taking the place of Rev. E. K. Means, pastor, who is ill.

Misses Mary Smith, Louise Littlepage and Kathleen Willis returned last night from Bosco, where they spent the week-end as guests of Miss Rebecca Williams.

R. E. Poe returned this morning from Birmingham, where he visited his father.

E. M. Grayson of Jonesville is spending several days here as the guest of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Boatner Grayson.

Miss Estelle Adams and Miss Bessie Grayson left yesterday to spend their vacations in St. Louis.

ALEXANDRIA MEN COMING TO CITY

Good Will Trip Of Chamber Of Commerce To Be Made Friday

The good will tour of the members of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, postponed from Thursday of last week, will be held Friday. Fully 25 business men, headed by Mayor Lamkin of Alexandria, and Albert Stowe, secretary of the chamber of commerce, will make the trip in a big bus, arriving here at 11:45 a.m.

During a stay of exactly half an hour, the party will assemble at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe in Hotel Virginia, where they will be greeted by Mayor Arnold Bernstein and other city and parish officials and officers of the local chamber of commerce.

Souvenirs will be passed out to the guests through courtesy of the local chamber.

From here the bus will proceed to Ruston, where dinner will be served at the chamber of commerce headquarters there.

This trip will be the first of a series of good will journeys to be made by Alexandria business men. The party will leave Alexandria at 6:30 a.m., and stops will be made at all cities and towns on the route between Alexandria and Ruston.

S. H. McClary, secretary of the local chamber of commerce, asks that as many representative business men as possible be present to greet the group during their short stay in Monroe.

Democratic Committee Meeting Call Is Issued

FARMERVILLE, La., Sept. 19.—(Special)—The Union parish Democratic committee, through Harvey G. Fields, chairman, was called to meet October 15 at the courthouse in Farmerville to set the date for an election of parish and ward officers and to fix deposits and fees to be charged candidates.

Mr. Fields said that as chairman of the fifth congressional district committee, he will issue a call within the next few days for a meeting of the congressional committee in Monroe.

As he interprets the law, Mr. Fields said that the state committee and district committee should meet by October 1.

He said that the state committee, he understood, would be called to meet soon in either New Orleans or Baton Rouge.

Presbyterian Manse To Be Built At Jonesville

FERRIDAY, La., Sept. 18.—(Special)—Work will begin soon on the erection of a new Presbyterian manse at Jonesville for the pastor of the church, Rev. K. C. Seawright.

Money for the erection of the manse was raised by the members of the congregation and the church will have a full-time pastorate on Oct. 1.

The church at Jonesville is 79 years old, although the original building is not now standing. It is said that the original building was shot down by federal gunboats traveling up the Ouachita river, making their way to Monroe, during the Civil war.

ENROLLMENT INCREASES

WINNSBORO, La., Sept. 19.—(Special)—Increased enrollments at all schools in Franklin parish were noted as the 1935-36 season began. Winnsboro High school showed an enrollment of 826, 240 in the high school department and 586 in the elementary grades. A last-minute change in the local faculty resulted when G. E. Boggs, coach here for a number of years, accepted an appointment at a CCC camp in educational work. C. L. Parker was made coach in Boggs' place.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

NEW YORK.—Economic note: One of the factors in the rise and fall of the stock market is a gray tomcat that lives in the Exchange building. When he comes on the floor, visiting around at the various trading posts and purring, superstitious members believe the market's going up. But when he lies down by one of the posts—steels, for example—that's a sign those stocks are going down.

Agricultural report: New Yorkers are heeding the back-to-the-farm idea, and farms actually within the city limits have doubled in number in a year. There are 446 now, but only one on Manhattan Island. That's a truck farm near upper Broadway, is five acres in extent, and is worth $400,000.

Racket item: Some of the taxi-drivers and helpful, night-blooming lady friends have teamed in a new sucker game. The girls ride in the back seats, entice lonely males into the cabs, ride to distant addresses, change their minds and demand to be taken miles in the opposite diretcion. When a taxi meter registers $15 or $20 the victim usually gets out and walks home.

Cut Price Memento

Advertisement: For sale, by a Fifth avenue shop, one platinum slave bracelet, made in Italy. Ten years ago an offer of $10,000 for it was refused, but owing to rapid depreciation in sentimental value will sacrifice for $350. Original owner was a motion picture actor named Rudolph Valentino.

Sports note: Nearly every evening pedestrians at Longacre square witness a race along the crowded sidewalk. Bets are made and small cash awards go to the contestants—a couple of legless beggars perched on roller-skate carts. Regular alternation of winners has led to dark hints of collusion.

Science news: Broadway crowds quickly gather around a young man who tinkers with a mysterious-looking box, from which a maze of wires lead to a suitcase parked on the curbing. He adjusts a lot of knobs and a light goes on in the box. Apparently oblivious of the onlookers, he peeps into an aparture and speaks excitedly: "Okay, Charley—I can see you now! You got your hat on an' you're smokin' a cigaret . . . Can you see me all right? . . . It works, Charley, it works!" . . . Suddenly noticing the gaping crowd, he then opens the suitcase and begins selling "souvenirs of a great scientific triumph." The souvenirs are little cardboard boxes each containing a mirror, and are sold with complete directions for using them to look around corners.

Sideline's A Pipe

Nearly all the Broadway dining places go in for distinctive decorations involving celebrities who have been there. Sardi's is most notable for caricatures, Dave's Blue room for photographs, and a score of others display sketches, letters and autographs. Keen's Chop house, purposefully hewing to the old English tavern tradition, keeps pipes. About 10,000 clay pipes are displayed in racks, and each one has been smoked by somebody—maybe Peggy Hopkins Joyce, maybe David Belasco or Victor Herbert, perhaps only by a visiting grocer from Six Corners, Kansas.

A pipe costs 50 cents—which makes a nice little sideline for the establishment—and anybody can buy one, smoke it and have it filed away in a rack with his name. The acrid taste of a new clay pipe is considerably mellowed by sentiment. Many of the pipe stems are broken—another tavern tradition, which means that the broken pipes are labeled with the names of Teddy Roosevelt, William Howard Taft, Buffalo Bill Cody and James Gordon Bennett, as well as the above-mentioned Belasco and Herbert.

Hollywood Close-Ups

By Robin Coons

HOLLYWOOD.—Lyle Talbot, who won his trouper's diploma playing stock in the hinterlands before being graduated to films, is the lad who has the studio publicity department biographer going around in circles.

'A Little Confusing'

If there's a more complicated life story in Hollywood than Lyle's it has not come to light yet. He was born in Pittsburgh . . . his mother died when he was two weeks old. . . . His father, Ed Henderson, was only 19 at the time, so Grandmother Talbot (whose maiden name was Mary Hollywood) adopted the infant Lyle. Legally, therefore, his grandmother is his mother, and his grandmother's son Jack Talbot, who is his uncle and five years older than his father, is legally also his brother.

When his father married the second time, two years after the death of his first wife, Lyle acquired a new mother, but continued to live with his grandmother at her little hotel at Brainerd, Nebr., most of the time. He has eight grandparents instead of four.

"It is a little confusing, isn't it?" he admits.

A Narrow Squeeze

Talbot went to work in pictures immediately after his arrival in Hollywood. It was fortunate, for when he first saw the lights of the film city, he had only $17 in his pocket. He had lost $10,000 trying to put over his own stock company in Memphis, Tenn.

He had a precarious job in Dallas, Texas, when a movie agent spotted him and offered a screen test.

"I had had screen tests before," he says, "so I was not too hopeful. My agent got me a part in pictures, and then I won a contract. But I was still broke—I needed a couple of suits, a tuxedo and a business suit, and a tailor here staked me to them against my contract. I'm still with him, so I think his investment was profitable."

Talbot is talking about settling down permanently in Hollywood, the first place he ever had a "real house with a yard."

SLOT MACHINES IN NEW ORLEANS OPERATE AGAIN

Most Makes Are Confiscated But 'Chiefs' Allowed To Run

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—New Orleans "here today and gone tomorrow" slot machines were doing a wide-open business today with Veterans of Foreign wars, in convention, speeding up the play.

Only one type of machine was in evidence, however, the "Chief," with other makes being confiscated and destroyed on sight.

The "Chiefs," the kind in which nickels are played and which sometimes pay off from five nickels up to 100 or more, were in full operation several weeks ago but vanished when the late Senator Huey P. Long returned from Washington early this month.

The day after they were all hidden, Brigadier-General Louis F. Guerre, head of Long's controlled state bureau of criminal identification and investigation, issued an order that they would be confiscated. None, as far as could be learned, were confiscated.

The "Chiefs" did not appear in New Orleans until shortly after Long completed his conquest of the New Orleans city administration and took over complete control of the police department.

George Reyer, superintendent of police, has repeatedly declared that his officers have instructions to destroy all slot machines found, but numerous policemen have been seen putting their own nickels into the prominently displayed "Chiefs."

The "Chiefs" went back on saloon, restaurant and other counters yesterday at about the time police confiscated a machine of another make.

Long used a "vice and gambling" clean-up crusade as his chief weapon in September, 1934, when his organization defeated the city administration forces but later declared he didn't intend to police every "half-house and half-square" to catch gamblers.

As the slot machines clanked throughout the city, luxurious casinos just outside New Orleans did a flourishing roulette and dice business.

week proclaimed by President Roosevelt to start October 16.

Lyman J. Briggs, director of the bureau of standards, dug into his records and found that losses on fires in buildings amount to $1,000,000,000 annually. These figures do not include marine and forest fire losses.

May Drop Potato Plan

At the agriculture department Secretary Wallace indicated that the compulsory potato control plan which was to be enforced through a tax on excess production may be abandoned because of lack of an enforcement fund. Instead, he said, a voluntary program may be adopted.

The tax plan has been criticized in several quarters. The American Liberty league has assailed it as "of doubtful constitutionality." Wallace has called a meeting of growers here October 3 to discuss it.

To Stimulate Bond Sale

At the treasury department word was passed that sale of the recently issued baby bonds would be stimulated through magazine advertisements. The aim is to stimulate interest in these bonds, the smallest of which sells for $18.75. To date $132,000,000 have been sold.

Controversy developed today between the American Liberty league and the American Federation of Labor over the constitutionality of the administration's national labor relations act.

The national lawyers committee of the league called the act "unconstitutional." To this Frank Morrison, secretary of the A. F. of L., replied that the committee represented the view of "special privilege" and "big business."

Joshua Reynolds, Thomas Edison, Ludwig von Beethoven and Harriett Martineau were among the hard-of-hearing whose lives were notably successful.

CITY CAN OBTAIN U. S. STRUCTURE FOR PUBLIC USE could acquire the old postoffice property under the terms of the act.

"If the city can obtain the federal building on terms that would not prove burdensome to the people, I believe it would be a fine thing to do," the mayor said. "The building could be used for housing several city departments that are not properly accommodated now, and could also be employed as a civic center for recreational activities, health unit, library, or other city projects. I have asked the treasury department for full information on the subject so that we may know how to proceed for the best advantage of the city."

The mayor expressed appreciation to J. Fair Hardin, of Shreveport, assistant district attorney of the United States district court, for calling to his attention the passage of the act under which municipalities may acquire federal buildings. Mr. Hardin, in a letter to the mayor a few days ago, enclosed a copy of the act, and suggested that Monroe might be interested in taking advantage of its provisions.

Text of Act

The text of the act follows:

"In order to suitably dispose of certain federal buildings and the sites thereof under the control of the treasury department, which have been supplanted by new structures, and for which the secretary of the treasury has determined there is no further federal need, he is hereby authorized in his discretion, if he deems it to be in the best interests of the government, to sell such buildings and sites or parts of sites to states, counties, municipalities, or other duly constituted political subdivisions of states for public use upon such terms, pursuant to such rules and regulations promulgated by him as he deems proper, and to convey the same by the usual quit claim deed, and he may enter into long-term contracts for the payment of the purchase price in such installments as he deems fair and reasonable and may furthermore waive any requirements for interest charges on deferred payments; provided, that the total purchase price shall in no case be less than 50 per centum of the appraised value of the land, the appraisal to be made by the treasury department; provided further, that the proceeds of the sales shall be deposited in the treasury as miscellaneous receipts; provided further, that in the event portions of any federal building sites under the control of the treasury department are desired by municipalities by reason of any duly authorized, comprehensive street-widening program, the secretary of the treasury may deed to such municipalities, without cost, such areas needed for street uses as may be dedicated without jeopardy to the federal interest."

Pastor To Preach Last Services Here Shortly

Rev. Roger M. Baxter, for the past several years pastor of Central Baptist church, Lee avenue, who recently resigned to become pastor of the Baptist church at Mangham, will preach his last services on September 22 and 29.

Already his family has removed to their new home in Mangham.

Emphasis is placed on the importance of the children's class in the beginning of the series. Mrs. Mayo, teacher of piano at the Southwestern Bible school, will take active part in the services.

shot at close range through the heart. In his hip pocket police found a loaded .38 caliber revolver.

Bank Book Found

In a dress in the bedroom police found bank books made out in the name of Mrs. Kate LeVan, wife of Orlando. She died three weeks ago after a stroke during a visit with relatives at Easton, Pa.

Police calculated the deposits to total $30,000.

Beside Charles' body was his wallet and a note with this inscription:

"In case anything happens to me, notify Mr. Guy Wiley, Tobeyhanna, Pa.

"Charles R. Geary.

"Get Russ Frey, South Sterling, Pa."

Frey is an undertaker.

Wiley lives across the street from the LeVan summer home, where Charles Geary lived with his wife, as caretaker.

Wiley told Capt. Rowe that John Geary had been adopted by Orlando LeVan when John was two years old. Mrs. LeVan and the mother of John and Charles Geary were sisters. Mrs. Geary died some years ago. Her maiden name was Koken.

Had Several Drinks

From questioning tenants of the four-flat building where the tragedy occurred, police pieced together the following story:

Charles drove from Tobeyhanna in the early part of the evening and after a short visit with the LeVans and his brother, went out with Benjamin to a nearby tavern, where they had several drinks of beer.

They then returned to the apartment and the four men sat about a kitchen table discussing family affairs.

About 11 p.m. Charles left the group, walked outside, probably to where his car was parked at the back of the house, and returned a short time later.

Rowe said that Charles had probably gone out for the shotgun, loaded with six shells. As he re-entered the apartment he perhaps resumed the conversation where it had been broken off, and suddenly forced the other three men to line up in front of him, hands held high and their backs to him.

He then began firing, Capt. Rowe said, from right to left, mowing down first his brother, John, then Orlando LeVan and finally Ben, who was found slumped face downward, his back humped in a grotesque posture, near the door. John and Orlando were shot in the back, Benjamin in the left side.

Charles then poured himself a cup of coffee, walked to the sun parlor, sipped half the contents, telephoned police, and committed suicide. In the shotgun were found two shells still unfired. Four other loaded shells were in his lumberjack coat.

now under the forestry division, and will be transferred to the department of interior, under whose authority the national park will be constructed.

According to previous information received here, completion of the park is expected within a year to a year and a half, with an expenditure of $110,000 for unskilled labor and $40,000 for materials and skilled labor.

Tourist cottages, a restaurant, dance hall, concert pavillion, in addition to roads, bridges and telephone facilities, are to be constructed for the accommodation of persons using the park. The area within a 40-mile radius of the tract is said to encompass a population of approximately 100,000 persons. Senator Terzia stated that the Morehouse project is the first national park approved for Louisiana.

which I find impossible to describe in words.

"Louisiana is in mourning. A nation is baffled and a world is confused. One seat in the United States senate is made vacant but his passing has created numerous vacancies beyond this. No living man could hope to fill this gap in the affairs of our nation. However, the time is here when someone must take up where he left off and carry out the ideals which he held so high.

"For some time my name has been used freely by thousands of people in connection with every high office in the gift of the state. Following the death of Senator Long, leaders and men of influence began to urge me to offer myself as a candidate to fill the seat in the senate left vacant. The very thought humbled me but recalled upon numerous occasions he had called me to Washington to advise with him, to meet his friends and discuss affairs pertinent to Louisiana, such as flood control transportation, public utilities and national issues affecting the state.

"During these conferences we discussed often and in detail the share-the-wealth movement which was the burden of his heart and the passion of his life. Recalling these things, I was convinced that my friends were sincere in offering their support and I found that every Long leader and share-the-wealth campaigner within my acquaintance with whom I talked enthusiastically encouraged my candidacy.

"It is not necessary for me to state my platform because when I say I am announcing my candidacy for the United States senate on the Huey Long share-the-wealth ticket, that constitutes a platform complete in itself.

"However, I shall make no compromises, for the circumstances which require this candidacy prescribe my course.

(Signed) "WADE O. MARTIN,
"Public Service Commissioner."

Fournet Approves

Associate Justice John B. Fournet issued this statement:

"It meets with my hearty approval. I have advocated Lieutenant-Governor Noe as the successor to Governor Allen ever since my own elevation to the supreme court and it gratifies me very much that my many friends have assured me of their approval of this course.

"My acquaintance with Wade Martin's work in behalf of the share-the-wealth program and his unstinted efforts on behalf of flood control and other public betterments convinces me that he is the logical man to succeed my late personal friend, Senator Huey P. Long, for the term in the United States senate beginning in January, 1937.

"I have no hesitancy in soliciting my many friends in behalf of their candidacies."

Gerald Smith, likewise endorsed the Martin-Noe candidacies in this statement:

"I am glad that these men have had the courage to be loyal to the principles of our beloved leader, Senator Huey P. Long.

"And upon hearing an expression on the part of our governor that these men were preferable to him, I readily assured them of my endorsement. Every ounce of my energy will be expended in their behalf.

"I have no personal political ambitions and my interests are in endorsing men of this type for public office who will carry on the ideals and principles of share-the-wealth to which I have dedicated my future life, not only in Louisiana but throughout the United States."

Ellender Is Silent

Allen J. Ellender, speaker of the house of representatives and for years a right-hand man of Senator Long, who had been prominently mentioned along with Noe for the gubernatorial candidacy of the organization, had no immediate statement when reached at his home in Houma.

Ill in bed with a cold, he indicated he might make a statement later.

No direct statement came at once from Governor Allen, who has been talked in caucus as the candidate for the full six-year term in the senate.

Elections for both unexpired and full terms are to be held in January.

OBITUARY

MRS. MILLIE RICHARDSON

J. D. Reeves, 1608 South Grand street, attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Millie Richardson, 24, who died suddenly at Bernice Tuesday night. Services were held at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Reeves, in Bernice. Interment took place in Shiloh cemetery.

Mrs. Richardson's death was due to after effects of injuries received in an automobile accident in August, 1933. On Sunday she left her home in Shreveport to visit her parents, and at the time she appeared as well as she had been for many months. A sudden turn for the worse occurred and death resulted.

Mrs. Richardson was the wife of Grant O. Richardson, a Shreveport newspaper man. She leaves, besides her parents, her husband, one son; two brothers, J. D. Reeves of Monroe and Philip Reeves of Bernice; and three sisters, Mrs. Vivian Sutton of Shamrock, Texas, and Doris and Myrtle Reeves of Bernice.

School Child Fatally Hurt In Bus Accident

LAFAYETTE, La., Sept 19.—(AP)—Leroy Baudoin, eight-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baudoin, was fatally injured, and other students hurt, when a school bus in which they were riding overturned about three miles from here, on Maurice road this morning.

The Baudoin child died soon after being brought to a local hospital. None of the other pupils were seriously injured, suffering only minor cuts and bruises.

Parish School Superintendent J. W. Faulk, who investigated the accident, said the bus driver, Eugene Hernandez, had looked toward the rear of the bus for a moment to speak to one of the students, and that when he turned back he saw the machine heading toward a ditch.

In an effort to right it, the bus overturned, pinning the children beneath it, Superintendent Faulk said.

the waters calmed sufficiently for them to take off all but a skeleton force which remained aboard to aid the salvage operations.

The winds that drove the Dixie ashore twisted 40-foot metal hatches, broke her windows, carried ventilators 100 yards and rolled salt water over her polished hardwood floors.

She was stuck in 16 feet of water, around 400 feet from the depths necessary to float her, situation so it was necessary for the tugs to pull her stern first.

It was planned to tow the ship to Miami for two days to give the skeleton crew of 55 a chance to go ashore. Then she will be taken to New York, placed in drydock and reconditioned.

Chicago Cubs Continue Stampede Toward Championship

TRIM GIANTS AND TAKE FIFTEENTH STRAIGHT GAME

Clouting Crew Looks Good Enough To Win Indefinitely

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The pennant-hungry Cubs have gobbled up another record on their way toward the National league title, just about wrecking the hopes of the Giants.

The Cubs routed the Giants 15 to 3 yesterday for their 15th straight triumph, holding their 2 1-2-game margin over the second-place Cardinals and putting the Giants 6 1-2 games to the rear.

The victory gave them not only the longest winning streak in either circuit this season but the longest in the National league since Brooklyn hit the 15-mark in 1924.

Charley Grimm's clouting crew looked good enough to go on almost indefinitely without a loss. Trailing 1-2 as they came to bat in the fourth inning, they battered Clydell Castleman and Harry Gumbert for eight runs in the one frame and sewed up the game.

Charley Root, who pitched steadily all the way, whiffed three Giants in the fifth. In the next frame the Cubs made three straight errors to load the bases, then retired the side without a run.

With a crowd of 33,000 out yesterday and more than 90,000 for the three games of the series, the Cubs looked forward to another big afternoon today in the wind-up of the important struggle.

With another win Chicago would need only four more victories in seven starts to keep the Giants out of the struggle. Bill Lee was the nomination to pitch, while Carl Hubbell was expected to oppose him.

The Cards, with eleven games to go against Chicago's eight, came from behind to trim the Dodgers 6 to 3. A bad sixth inning put Bill Hallahan in the hole as Pepper Martin, subbing in the outfield for injured Terry Moore, contributed an error to a two-run Dodger rally.

But the Cards smashed back with four straight hits off Tom Zachary and Bobby Reis to take the lead in the seventh and win behind Paul Dean's relief flinging.

In the American league, the Yankees delayed the final settlement a little longer by breaking even with the Browns in a double-header while the Tigers dropped a 4-3 decision to the Red Sox.

A five-run rally in the eighth gave St. Louis a 7 to 4 triumph in the opener but the Yanks came back behind Johnny Broaca to win 6 to 3. Wes Ferrell's ninth inning pinch hit off Schoolboy Rowe was the wallop that beat Detroit.

These three games left the Tigers eight games ahead with ten games to go for them and eleven for the Yanks.

The Cleveland Indians walloped the Athletics 10 to 5 and 10 to 0 with Mel Harder pitching four-hit ball in the second for his 10th victory.

The Senators beat the White Sox 5 to 4 and 3 to 1. The opener was won in the last inning.

Pittsburgh and Cincinnati won single games in the National league, the Pirates beating the Braves 5 to 2 for Cy Blanton's 18th triumph and the Reds turning back Philadelphia 6 to 5 with a three-run ninth-inning spurt.

Tulane Tackle Suffers Broken Hand In Practice

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—X-rays Wednesday revealed that Ray Miller, promising Tulane sophomore tackle prospect, broke a bone in his left hand in football practice Monday. Physicians said he would have to remain on the sidelines for five weeks.

Coach Ted Cox omitted scrimmaging in Wednesday's program putting his charges through a long practice session in fundamentals.

CHICAGO BLASTS 15 TO 3 VICTORY OVER NEW YORK

Rampaging League Leaders Bunch Seven Hits In Wild Inning

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Chicago's rampaging Cubs ran their spectacular winning streak to 15 Wednesday by crushing the New York Giants, 15 to 3, in a wild and wooly game that left 33,000 popeyed fans wondering if Bill Terry's men were in the National league.

Charlie Root

The decisive victory, decided in a wild fourth inning when the Cubs bunched seven hits with three Giant errors to score eight runs, was the third in succession over New York, tumbling the Giants 6 1-2 games behind the wild Cubs. It was the most crushing defeat of the season for Terry, who left the game in disgust in the seventh inning.

With Carley Root, the "grandpappy" of the pitching staff, muffling the Giant runs with nine-hit pitching and working smoothly despite five of his mates harmless misplays, the free and easy winging Cubs had a field day, collecting 20 hits off three pitchers, Clyde Castleman, Harry Gumbert and Frank Gabler.

Instead of stopping after their eight-run assault, the merry mad Cubs scored four more runs in the fifth and two more in the sixth before they let up on their fire. Three of their errors came in succession in the sixth after two were out, and even then the Giants failed to score on the run of misplays.

Today's crowd, which brought the paid attendance for the three-game series to above 90,000 saw a ball game for only 3 1-2 innings. The Cubs darted out in front in the second inning when Frank Demaree opened with a double and ran home on a fielder's choice, a lead the Giants wiped out in the third when Castleman singled and trotted home on a triple by Joe Moore, who was out trying for a home run inside the park. In their half of the fourth, the Giants went ahead, 2 to 1, as Mel Ott singled, raced to third on Hank Leiber's single and scored as Gus Mancuso hit into a double play.

What happened thereafter was loud and funny to everyone but the Giants. This was the sequence of base hits and errors.

CARDS DOWN DODGERS

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Threatened with another upset by the Dodgers of the same sort that struck them yesterday, the Cardinals came through with a stirring seventh-inning rally Wednesday to defeat Brooklyn 6 to 3 and hold their place 2 1-2 games behind the speeding Chicago Cubs.

The triumph increased the Cards' lead to four games over their recent conquerers, the third-place New York Giants, who were buried by the Cubs Wednesday.

After jumping ahead in the first inning, the Cards fell behind in the sixth when the Dodgers bunched three of their six blows off Bill Hallahan for a pair of runs. The "Gas House Gang" came back with its usual scrap, picking up one run in the sixth then blasting old Tom Zachary out in the seventh to take the lead.

Hallahan retired for a pinch hitter in that inning and Paul Dean came in to hurl two hitless innings and protect the lead. It was the 16th game in the Cards' last 19 in which one of the Dean brothers has worked.

The injury to Terry Moore Tuesday had its effect on the Cardinal playing. Pepper Martin, shifted back to the outfield to fill the gap, helped pave the way for the Dodgers' two runs in the sixth with a fumble. After Sam Leslie walked and Buster Mills made his second hit, Martin fumbled the ball long enough for

LaRue Defeats Strongberg In Main Event At Stadium

Trick Fall Ends Bout; Dr. Van Horn Gets Decision

Frenchie LaRue took just two minutes to win the third and deciding fall of a main event wrestling match with Rudy Strongberg here last night at the Roosevelt stadium.

The Canadian won the fall in a surprising end of a round in which it seemed that he was being battered into submission. Thrown to the mat by a series of flying mares, Frenchie suddenly tripped the German grappler in a swing-back fall from the ropes and grabbed a crab hold to win the round.

Strongberg appeared on the weekly mat card in the place of Al Maynard, who was crippled in a match with Leo the Terror at Beaumont, Texas, Tuesday night. Maynard suffered a hip injury and was a patient yesterday at a Beaumont hospital.

In the semi-final bout, Dr. Van Horn was given the referee's decision in the third and deciding round after being repeatedly slugged by his opponent, Hank Metheney, despite warnings of the referee.

Strongberg won the first fall of the final bout with two flying mares, an airplane spin and a body slam that made it an easy matter for him to pin LaRue's shoulders to the mat. The fall lasted 17 minutes. In the second round, LaRue won the fall with a crab hold after flooring Strongberg several times with punches to the jaw. This fall lasted nine minutes.

The final round was fast and furious, with both matmen slugging and punching. Strongberg was about to win with the series of flying mares when LaRue's trick swing-back fall gave the round to the Canadian.

The semi-final bout was rough throughout. Metheney won the first fall in 13 minutes with two body slams after kneeing, gouging and kicking Van Horn into submission. The medico came back strong in the second round and won in five minutes with a hook scissors.

In the final round of the opening match, Metheney was applying a series of flying mares when the medico suddenly jumped astride his back and clamped on a leg scissors. To break the fall, Metheney walked into the ropes and both grapplers fell outside the ring on the floor. Van Horn still holding his leg scissors. This was a disadvantage, however, as Metheney was on top of him and beat him severely with his fists. The referee was counting, and Metheney was the first to return to the ring.

Twice, despite warnings of the referee, Metheney punched Van Horn through the ropes as the latter attempted to climb back into the ring, and a third time, with the referee bodily attempting to keep Metheney away from the ropes, Metheney slugged his opponent. That was enough for the referee. He disqualified Metheney and awarded the decision to Van Horn.

At the close of the program, Promoter Charlie Bruscato said he will attempt to bring Tommy Marvin here next week for a bout with Metheney. Marvin is the grappler who wrestled Danno O'Mahoney, generally recognized as the world champion, at Shreveport several weeks ago, and the promoter believes he will be a suitable opponent for the rough Missourian.

The bouts last night were refereed by Bill Reilly, of Shreveport, professional referee who has signed a 60-day contract to handle bouts at Roosevelt stadium. Reilly seemed to please more of the fans with his work than most referees have satisfied them here within some weeks.

Harry Prophit made the announcements and Philip Lisotta kept time.

Between the bouts, the announcer introduced an Italian wrestler known as Count Pietro Rossi.

BRADDOCK UNCERTAIN ABOUT FIGHT RESULT AFTER SEEING LOUIS

POMPON LAKES, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP)—Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock, on record as picking Max Baer to stop Joe Louis in the Yankee stadium, next Tuesday night, took one good look at the brown bomber Wednesday and indicated he may hop to the Louis band wagon.

"I won't say for certain until I see Baer work at Speculator Friday, but if what I hear about his workouts is true, I'm liable to join a lot of the boxing writers and switch. This fellow showed me plenty today."

Louis, who stepped through seven rounds with four sparring mates, seldom cut loose, but Braddock was so impressed with his perfect condition and the way the slow eyed negro throws his punches that he didn't hesitate to predict that win, lose or draw Baer is in for the fight of his life next week.

RAYVILLE GRID TEAM WILL PLAY FERRIDAY

RAYVILLE, La., Sept. 19.—(Special)—With two weeks of training behind them, the Rayville Hornets are ready for their first game of the season to be played Friday afternoon with the Ferriday Bulldogs at Ferriday.

The starting lineup will be chosen from the following: Weggington, Nichols, and Statham, ends; Leary, Branch and Silk, tackles; Donald, Dickens, Inzer and Landrum, guards; O'Neal and Silk, centers; C. O'Neal, Allen Greer and Coenen, halfbacks; Fragala and Meeks, fullbacks.

INDIAN FRESHMEN WORK FOR BERTHS

First Year Candidates For Center Eleven Are Making Strong Bids

With excellent freshmen material battling for the starting lineup in the opening game against Monticello A. & M. college here September 27th, the returning lettermen of Northeast Center of L. S. U.'s football squad are finding it a tough struggle to hold down the positions they held last season and in the daily scrimmages Coaches Jim Malone and Ray Egan have the No. 1 eleven well sprinkled with new prospects.

Practically every player who rated a starting berth on the Indians' lineup last season returned to school this year as a sophomore, but their last season's experience appears meaningless in view of the performances the freshmen candidates have been showing during the training period.

The outstanding freshman candidate for a fulltime job on the varsity lineup is Homer King, six-foot-four husky from Ruston, who tips the scales around the two-hundred pound mark. King is exceptionally fast for a big man and has the inside track for the pivot position since Boyd Arnold has been shifted back to his old post at end. With Arnold back at end, the fight for center has been narrowed down to King and Henry "Plug" Spillar, who was the reserve center last season. Spillar was being touted for varsity center this year and seemed to have clear sailing until the young Ruston "giant" made his bid for the position.

Another bright prospect of the yearling crop is Clyde French, a Monroe youngster, who played guard for the Ouachita Parish High school a couple of years. French tried working at guard with the Redmen last fall but saw all his games from the bench. Coach Malone began working him at a terminal post when training started this season and is pleased with the work the young husky is doing.

"Pug" Pierce, Neville high's blocking back of last season, reported to the Indian squad yesterday and was out in shorts later in the afternoon for his first workout with the college squad.

WILDCATS READY TO BATTLE GENTS

Heavy Linemen Give Strength To Louisiana College Eleven

ALEXANDRIA, La., Sept. 19.—(Special)—Back at war strength for the opener here Thursday night with Centenary college's heavy brigade, the Louisiana college Wildcats showed lots of spirit Wednesday as they tapered off with a dummy scrimmage.

Full strength for the Cats found 27 varsity candidates on the field, including some big, fast linemen. Two sets of backs and a few to spare weigh around 160 pounds, with R. O. Rush the huskiest of the lot at 175. They have some "get-away" boys in the group.

Line play is built around the 225-pound giant, Frank Hart, potentially a great tackle. Another tackle is Lloyd Evans, sophomore, who is learning the tricks of the trade rapidly and gaining confidence. He scales 210 pounds.

One of the "seven Tarzans" Centenary will know better after Thursday night is Roy Lee, 186-pound junior. Listed as a guard, he is the third of the Lee brothers to defend the Orange and Blue and in his last year at Bolton he was elected to lead the Bears. He and Robert Corley, 188, the other guard, are known as the Bolton twins.

At right end, Roy Brister, co-captain, is a candidate for S. I. A. A. honors along with R. O. Rush and this local trio, Lee, Rush and Brister, are going to deal out misery.

Oklahoma City Trounces Beaumont, 4 To 1, To Win Opener In Texas Series

BEAUMONT, Texas, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Oklahoma City Indians jumped into the lead in the final series for the Texas league championship by trouncing the Beaumont Exporters Wednesday, 4 to 1, behind the two-hit pitching of Long John Niggeling.

The Tribe's victory was doubly important because it was of: "Red" Phillips, the Exporters ace hurler, and in the Shippers' home park.

The slender Oklahoma City right-hander pitched will enough to win almost any game. He issued four passes but was never in trouble except in the sixth when the Shippers made their only run on a walk, a sacrifice, a passed ball and a dinky single by Jones.

Phillips was stingy in the pinches until the ninth and it looked like an extra-inning game. The Indians drove him from the hill in the ninth, however, and scored three runs before Larkin was able to get them out.

RED SOX DEFEAT DETROIT TIGERS BY SCORE 4 TO 3

Wesley Ferrell Fills Hero's Role In Driving In Winning Run

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, who Tuesday pitched his twenty-fourth victory of the season, filled the hero's role again Wednesday, by pinch hitting for Oscar Melillo with the bases filled in the ninth and driving in the run that gave the Boston Red Sox a 4 to 3 victory over the champion Detroit Tigers.

Wesley Ferrell

Ferrell's blow caromed off Owen's shins and brought Rube Walberg the decision over Schoolboy Rowe, Tiger ace. Rowe had held Boston to six hits until the ninth, when Johnson singled, went to second on Walker's fumble, and to third as the Schoolboy juggled Rick Ferrell's sacrifice bunt. Pinch Hitter Miller was passed, filling the bases, and Ferrell then delivered the deciding blow.

YANKS, BROWNS DIVIDE

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Yankees broke even with the Browns Wednesday in their 26th double-header of the year and the last on their present schedule, dropping the opener, 7 to 5, when St. Louis scored five runs in the eighth, then winning the second clash, 6 to 3.

The split, coupled with Detroit's loss, kept the Yanks mathematically in the running for the pennant. Lefty Gomez was the victim of the Browns' big rally, when four hits wiped out a lead provided by Jesse Hill's homer.

Johnny Broaca pitched the afterpiece, scattering nine hits effectively while four St. Louis flingers failed to check the Yanks. Homers by Lyn Lary and Ed Coleman scored the only St. Louis runs. Bill Dickey and George Selkirk hit circuit blows for the Yanks.

Lou Gehrig was chased from the second game in the fifth inning for arguing with Umpire Dinneen over a called strike.

LOCAL GRIDSTERS TAPER OFF WORK

Ouachita Lions And Neville Tigers About Ready For Tilts

Monroe's two high school football teams, the Lions of Ouachita parish high school and Neville high school Tigers, went through the last hard workouts of their extensive training period yesterday in preparation for their season's openers tomorrow and will taper off with light limbering up exercises and signal drills this afternoon.

The Lions meet the Crossett, Ark., high school eleven at Northeast Center's stadium here tomorrow night, while the Tigers go to Camden, Ark., where they meet Camden's Panthers tomorrow.

Coach Percy Brown, of the Tigers, has been worrying over the setup of his line, which is composed mostly of reserves from the 1934 squad, but he believes it will be able to hold its own against the powerful Panthers. Neville will probably have its best all 'round backfield available in years.

The forward wall is the strongest cog in the Lion machine. The backfield is light, with few experienced men, and is just about the weakest backfield Ouachita has had in years, but Coach "Lefty" Haynes, who is beginning his first year with the Lions, promises to have a capable backfield in uniform tomorrow that may work wonders with the aid of the powerful line.

PELS, CRACKERS WIN OPENERS OF PLAYOFF SERIES

Orleans Bests Chicks, 12-5; Atlanta Trims Vols, 6-2

By Don Whitehead
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP)—With big Al Milnar casting his spell over the Chicks, New Orleans got off in front in the Shaughnessy playoff Wednesday by blasting three Memphis pitchers for 20 hits to win, 12 to 5.

The small crowd of 2,000 fans was given a thrill until the eighth inning with a nip-and-tuck scrap, but the Pels ended all doubt with a three-run blast, and clinched matters in the ninth with another trio of runs.

The Pels jumped on Jim Henry, Memphis' hope for the opener, for three runs in the fourth inning, sending him to the showers. Solly Carter relieved Henry and until the fatal eighth held his own with the New Orleans ace.

Then singles by Lee and Boss and doubles by Morgan and Gleeson netted three runs.

The Chicks wilted under this P[illegible] assault, and New Orleans shoved three more across in the final frame. Autry and Connally singled and Boward was sent in to replace Carter.

Lee walked, filling the bases. Milnar struck out and then Weatherly singled to right. James threw to third and Benning let the ball bound through his legs, Autry, Connally and Lee scoring.

The Chicks got to Milnar for 10 safeties, but the big left-hander did not allow more than one run in any inning and was master of the situation throughout, although he walked eight batters, he struck out seven.

Weatherly was the hitting star of the game, collecting a triple, double and single to drive in four runs in six times at bat. Morgan got a double and three singles in six times at bat. Marquardt for Memphis got four hits in five trips, with Benning hitting the only home run of the game.

SENATORS EVEN SERIES

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The Senators evened their series with the Chicago White Sox Wednesday by taking both ends of a doubleheader. The scores were 5-4, and 3-1.

Buck Newsom won the first game for himself in the ninth inning by lacing out a single to score Bluege, who had doubled. The Sox had scored a run in the first on Simmon's double and Hayes' single, and two more in the fourth on singles by Hopkins and Shea. The Senators picked up one in the fourth when Simmons dropped Lewis' long fly after Stone had walked, and tied it up in the fifth on Bolton's double, Bluege's single and Kuhel's triple.

In the nightcap, Chicago again started the scoring with three singles in the second which brought in Washington. But the Senators overcame the lead in the fourth when Myer was safe on Appling's error and Stone hit his 17th triple of the season, later scoring on Powell's single. In the sixth, Stone doubled and came in on Lewis' single.

Leslie to reach third. Lonnie Frey's single scored Leslie, and Mills, who had reached third, came home on a fly by Vincent Sherlock, who just reported from Indianapolis Wednesday. Mills had scored the first Brooklyn run on his double, and steal of third and Frey's infield out in the fourth.

Going into the seventh a run behind the Cards put together four straight singles by Charley Gelbert, Pinch Hitter Burgess Whitehead, Martin and Jack Rothrock. Zachary retired after the first pair and Bobby Reis after the second two. Emil Leonard came in just in time to have Frank Frisch hoist a long fly and let Martin score the third run. Pepper accounted for the first tally with a triple and Jim Collins scored the other two, hitting two doubles and coming home each time on base hits by Virgil Davis.

PIRATES TRIM BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19. — (AP) — Rookie Hurler Cy Blanton won his 18th victory Wednesday, aided by Rookie Outfielder Bud Hafey's seventh-inning double, as Pittsburgh bent the Boston Braves for the third straight time, 5 to 2.

Blanton fanned seven batters, running his season's total to 140, but was all even in a hurling duel with Fred Frankhouse when the Pirates went to bat in their half of the seventh.

Hafey's double, a walk and two singles gave Pittsburgh two runs, clinching the game in this frame.

EDITOR FAVORS MOVE AGAINST GRID TEAM

NORRIS, Tenn., Sept. 19.—(AP)—The action of school patrons in voting against a football team in the Tennessee valley authority's "model town" of Norris has met the approval of Landrum Bolling, young editor of the Norris News.

While editor of the orange and white, University of Tennessee student paper, a few years ago, Bolling had several arguments with university football officials because of his repeated criticism of "overemphasis of football."

In an editorial in the Norris News, Bolling writes:

"The thing that really gets us going is to remember that while a highly paid staff worked and dreamed about nothing but about how to provide physical development (of doubtful value, to be sure) to a group of already noble physical specimens, the majority of us, to whose physical development someone should have been giving thoughtful attention, were going through dull arm and leg exercises under the direction of a round-shouldered senior student.

"With a well-balanced intra-mural sports program all of the students in Norris will be assured proper attention, and the athletes of the school can have just as much fun in other games which do not have the harmful effect of inter-scholastic football."

BAER IS SAVAGE AS BOUT NEARS

Max Mauls Turner And Pounds Feldman Off His Feet

By Edward J. Nell
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 19.—It might have been the sight of his own blood, dripping from his nose over his lips; it might have been the sunshine warming the frigid Adirondacks for the first time in days; it might have been the crowd of a thousand that stood around cheering, or the mob of experts who came to scoff and went away a little wide-eyed.

But whatever it was, Max Baer, just six days away from his cross roads battle with Joe Louis in the Yankee stadium next Tuesday night, turned on jets of the savagery of his triumphs over Max Schmeling and Primo Carnera Wednesday. He mauled young Georgie Turner, the Tulsa boy who has been making his life miserable for a week, and he knocked down Abe Feldman, one of the top ranking young heavyweights, first time the Schenectady warrior ever has been toppled off his feet.

It was an entirely different looking Baer from the laughing clown who has been anything but impressive the last couple of times he boxed. Turner, a smart boxer and sharp hitter, was doing his usual workmanlike job on the former champion, when a left hook to the face started blood dripping slowly from Baer's nose.

The easy going grin on Baer's face, the gestures to the crowd, his booming laugh disappeared. In a flash he was the sullen, roaring destroyer of his best days. He swept Turner around the ring in one great gust, then subsided, laughing again.

But Feldman was different, the Schenectady heavyweight, best Baer has faced in training here, recently conqueror of John Henry Lewis, moves in constantly, like Louis. He punched sharply with both hands, slides easily away from wallops. He had a soft time with Baer for a round, and then the blood started again.

This time Baer carried through. Grunting with every punch he smashed Feldman across the ring, caught him a beautiful left hook on the chin, then a right cross, and down went Feldman, for the first time in his career, and this was with 20-ounce gloves.

GREENIES BOAST STRONG TACKLES

Coach Cox Is Pleased With Ace Tulane Linemen

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 19.—(Special)—Ted Cox, Tulane football coach, who was a great tackle at Minnesota a decade ago, promises to come to the front in Dixie this year with some of the finest tackles of his coaching career.

Not that Ted openly admits his tackles will be of the superior variety. That is merely the opinion formed by the downtown "experts" and they know a few things themselves about Ted's linemen.

The big Wave headman at that is unable to hide the fact that he is pleased with his tackles. The crop includes three veterans, two of whom played in all the important battles last year, plus the best collection of sophomore tackles ever graduated to the Wave varsity.

The ace tackles are Roy "Chief" Ary, senior performer, and Bill Moss, a junior. This pair is likely to become as famous as the Charlie Rucker-Elmer McCance combination of 1929 or the Tick Upton-Calvert deColigny duo of 1931.

Both of these boys became stars right off the bat as sophs. Year before last, Ary broke into the starting lineup with Bob Tessier and delivered in fine fashion. Last year, Moss got his chance when Bob Tessier was hurt.

Even a broken arm couldn't keep Bill Moss from going to town. He played in the Kentucky, L. S. U., and Temple games with his arm in a leather shield.

Ary and Moss are potent offensive tackles, being responsible for many of the Greenie gains last year, and on defense they're formidable.

Either of these two men may easily develop into an all-Southern tackle this year.

Dave Pace, sub tackle last season, undoubtedly will make himself valuable this fall and he'll supply the veteran competition.

JACK PETERSON COLORFUL BOXER

Cardiff Heavy Most Interesting Fighter Of England In Years

By John J. Romano

Jack Peterson is the first colorful heavyweight England has produced in years. The tall limbed Welshman scales but a few pounds heavier than a light heavyweight, but so far has managed to outlast the men Jeff Dickson has carefully selected for him.

Peterson has two serious obstacles to overcome before he can hope to gain world-wide recognition for his ability with his fists. One, real fighting prowess and, second, his manager-father.

The Cardiff giant, as doting fans of the colleries around his home like to call him, has shown little to recommend him as a threat to the world's heavyweight title other than the downright statement of his Dad that he will not come to America unless he is matched with Max Baer. Continuing, "The Americans can laugh and play the bluff. But within two years from today they will be begging on hands and knees for us to cross the water. No eye-wash. One fight only—for the world's championship."

This bluff statement was undoubtedly caused by Jimmy Johnston, a famous importer of British fighters on his own account, who offered Peterson one fight as a light heavy before guaranteeing him a match with Maxie Rosenbloom when the Harlem Harlequin held the 175-pound title.

American Gold Wasted.

Analyzing Peterson's record one arrives at the conclusion that he is no better than the assorted lot of British heavies who came over, pocketed huge gobs of American gold and left us with the clear, understandable position of how a weary gladiator turns his eyes to the glaring lights from a prone

HAWTHORNE TALKS AT KIWANIS MEET

District Attorney Urges Adherence To American Constitution

District Attorney Frank W. Hawthorne, in an address before the Monroe Kiwanis club at its regular meeting Wednesday noon in Hotel Virginia, voiced his conviction that adherence to the United States constitution "is the only assurance of continued stability and progress of the American nation."

"The constitution is the bulwark of our institutions," he said, "the anchor that holds secure our nation in times of stress and storm. To tamper with it or relinquish it is to court disaster."

The district attorney was the chief speaker at the Kiwanis club's annual observance of "Constitution Day." He reviewed the circumstances that brought about the framing of the constitution 148 years ago, and recalled Gladstone's comment that the document, which unified the American commonwealths was "the greatest instrument ever struck off at a given time by the hand or brain of man."

"The constitution is the protector of the liberties of the American people, and its principles represent the foundation of our country's greatness. It is the most vital element in the conservation of our social order."

The "Constitution Day" program was arranged by John M. Breard, chairman of the club's public affairs committee. Entertainment features included vocal solos by Mrs. Louise McComb.

The club adopted a resolution, recommended by the board of directors, favoring the passage of a stock law by the state legislature, to keep roaming cattle from the public highways. Other clubs in Louisiana will be asked to adopt similar resolutions.

Expressions of appreciation were voiced by President C. C. Colvert, on behalf of the club, for the work that has been done by Dr. A. L. Peters, chairman of the underprivileged child committee, in aiding children who have been suffering from physical disabilities. The work is one of the club's major activities of the year.

DIFFERENCES OVER NATURAL GAS RATES DECLARED ADJUSTED

The differences of citizens and gas consumers of Pineville, Bawcomville, Calhoun Road extension and other adjacent communities to Monroe and West Monroe with the Natural Gas company were adjusted and compromised yesterday, according to an announcement made by Harvey G. Fields, public service commissioner of this district.

According to the plans submitted to the commissioner, meter charges and deposits, beginning Oct. 1, and running for one year, will be reduced on residential consumers from $10 dbwn to $5, and the monthly minimum charges will be reduced from $2 to $1.50 per month.

The reduction on meter charges and deposits will not affect any but residential consumers.

The compromise will be considered by the commission as a whole on Sept. 25 at Baton Rouge, but Mr. Fields stated that in all probability the proposed plan will be given approval.

TEFLIS GROTTO BAND IS TO GIVE CONCERT

Teflis grotto band, which pleased a large assemblage at Hot Springs, Ark., on Labor day in concerts given at the Southwestern grotto convention, will be heard here in a free concert tonight at 8:15 o'clock on the campus of the Central Grammar school.

A program suited to all tastes has been prepared by the director, J. C. Ray, and a large attendance is expected.

PYTHIANS ARE OUT FOR BIG MEMBERSHIP

A concerted effort will be made to re-instate and enroll a record breaking number of members of the Knights of Pythias throughout the United States between now and October 4, it was stated by members of Stonewall lodge Thursday.

The increased membership will be complimentary to Reno S. Harp, supreme chancellor, who has been the cause of much inspiration ever since his election, according to members here. Every lodge in the country will endeavor to gain at least 10 per cent in membership between now and October 4, when the gain will be wired to Mr. Harp on his birthday.

Stonewall lodge of Monroe will initiate three candidates at their meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. From now on, it is expected to present large classes for initiation each week.

THE TARZAN TWINS — —By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The springing lion missed the boys, but by a margin so narrow that a claw touched the heel of Dick's shoe. With an agility born of desperation they climbed high above the angry beast of prey. "Why didn't you look him in the eye and make him turn tail?" Dick demanded.

"I was going to, but he wouldn't stand still," Doc replied; "why didn't you bring an umbrella to frighten him?" Beneath them now, Numa, the lion, stood glaring up with blazing yellow-green eyes, exposing yellow fangs, and keeping fateful vigil over his intended victim.

Fortunately for the boys, Nature had not endowed Numa with the ability to climb. But perhaps a quick death was preferable to this long waith which must surely end in death. To remain in the tree would be to starve, or to fall asleep and topple down. All paths led to doom!

But Numa was not of a mind to prolong this game of human versus animal wits. Numa knew a trick which should bring it to swift conclusion. He strode majestically back along the trail; but around the first turn he halted, wheeled about, and lay down out of sight.

While the October option gained 6 points, to 10.64, the more distant months eased on profit taking and realizing sales with December dropping 3 points to 10.58 and July 4 points and other months showing similar irregularity in the price movements of the options resulted from futures getting more in line with their normal relationship.

The October option lost its early gains in the final minutes of trading and joined other months in the decline as the market ended the day steady 1 to 4 points lower. Exports today were 9,379 bales.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—(AP)—The stock market went into reverse today as profit takers dented the list for declines ranging from fractions to more than 4 points.

An active selling flurry in the early afternoon put the ticker tape behind floor transactions, but the trading pace slowed somewhat later. The close was weak. Transfers approximated 1,900,000 shares.

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Heavy profit-taking in the early afternoon today unsettled the stock market.

The list started out with a slightly upward tilt, but selling later became rather widespread with losses ranging from one to three or more points in the more conspicuous issues. The ticker tape fell behind floor transactions at the height of the movement.

Stock traders ignored spurting grain prices. Wheat soared the limp of three cents a bushel at Winnipeg and was up as much at Chicago as warlike headlines and serious crop damage prospects brought a renewal of speculative buying. Cotton was only moderately improved.

U. S. government securities were quiet but a bit higher while company bonds were mixed. The guilder firmed in foreign exchange dealings as devaluation fears lessened. Other currencies slipped back in terms of the dollar.

Shares of Pullman dropped more than four points. American Can and U. S. Smelting were off about three each. Losers of smaller amounts included Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Cerro De Pasco, Montgomery Ward, U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Douglas Aircraft, Union Carbide, American Telephone and Case. A morning advance of some two points in Du Pont was replaced with a small decline.

The relapse in Pullman followed the company's action in cutting the quarterly dividend from 75 cents to 37 1-2 cents. The former rate had been paid since November, 1931. Financial observers were not particularly surprised by the reduction, but holders apparently were depressed by the statement of the directors citing current tax uncertainties.

Among the recovery items studied in brokerage quarters were: Leading companies advanced the price of lead .10 and .15 of a cent a pound to 4.50 and 4.55 cents a pound; Glidden company reported August sales were 37.7 per cent ahead of the same 1934 month; Crucible Steel company declared a dividend of 50 cents on its 7 per cent cumulative preferred on which the last payment was $1.75 in March, 1931; bank clearings for the week ended yesterday were at their best level since mid-July.

Fisher Denies Bruno Offered Commutation

TRENTON, N. J., Sept. 19.—(AP)—C. Lloyd Fisher, attorney for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, today denied published reports, not carried by the Associated Press, that Hauptmann had been offered commutation of his death sentence to life imprisonment if he would name his alleged associates in the Lindbergh baby kidnap-killing.

"No such offer was ever made to me or any one else connected with the defense," Fisher said. "No one officially or unofficially connected with the state has approached us, we wouldn't be interested in any such offer because we feel Hauptmann is innocent."

Attorney General David T. Wilentz, who was appearing in a Long Branch court case, said, "Hauptmann has been offered nothing. There is absolutely no truth in any stories that Hauptmann has been offered life or anything else."

EDUCATION THEME OF KENNEY TALK

High School Principal Deals With Psychological Features

C. B. Kenney, principal of the Neville High school, was the chief speaker at the Y's Men's club meeting, Wednesday night, at Hotel Frances. He took for his theme, "The Psychology of Education."

The speaker said that early American education started as far back as 1642. In the early days, ministers were often the school teachers of a community, as they were among the very few who possessed sufficient education to teach.

He further emphasized that each section of the country has a different psychology, which is due to the varying industrial and business conditions and differing climatic conditions.

But five subjects were considered necessary for one's education back in 1642, Mr. Kenney said, but now there are 28 subjects that are so taught. In the modern high schools of the country as many as 1,000 different subjects are taught, the students having a wide variety of subjects from which to make their selection.

Miss Lallage Feazel entertained with a reading and was given hearty applause.

One new member, Dr. O. W. Cosby, was received. A number of members who are local public school teachers were present for the first time since the close of school last spring.

Doctor Told Her How to Lose 17 Pounds of Fat

Eat Proper Foods

Mrs. Robert Hickey of Roseville, Calif., writes: "My doctor prescribed Kruschen Salts for me—he said they wouldn't hurt me in the least. I've lost 17 lbs. in six weeks. Kruschen is worth its weight in gold."

Mrs. Hickey paid no attention to geesipers who said there was no safe way to reduce. She wisely followed her doctor's advice.

To lose fat safely and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness, go light on fatty meats, butter, cream and sugary sweets.

Eat fresh vegetables, fruits, fowl and fish (except mackerel and salmon).

Take one half a teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts with the juice of half a lemon before breakfast every morning, and as the excess pounds go notice how much better you feel—more active—more ambition—gloriously alive—you feel younger—Kruschen costs as low as 40c.

No more cathartics—no more laxatives—and no constipation when you take your little daily dose of Kruschen.

For sale by Fazer's Drugs, Inc., or any good druggist.—Adv.

SPECIAL TRAIN OUTLOOK GOOD

If Sufficient Number Obtained, Will Be Run To St. Louis Sunday

Efforts are being exerted in local American Legion circles to obtain a minimum of 75 persons to make the trip by special train from Monroe to St. Louis Sunday night to attend the national convention.

Unless 75 are obtained, the train proposed to be operated over the Missouri Pacific railroad will not be operated.

As a further inducement, the chapter of the Sons of the American Legion at Baton Rouge plans to send its bugle corps to Monroe to give an exhibition and later to leave on the special train.

Should the train fail to operate, the boys will make the trip to St. Louis over the Illinois Central direct to St. Louis.

The outlook for the obtaining of the necessary 75 persons to make the trip was regarded good Thursday morning. Those planning on the trip are asked to communicate with Dr. C. L. Mengis at the courthouse or with the Missouri Pacific ticket office, Hotel Virginia.

Engineering Unit To Be Added To L. S. U. Corps

BATON ROUGE, La., Sept. 19.—Addition of an engineering unit to the reserve officers' training corps division at Louisiana State university was announced today by Dr. James M. Smith, president of the institution. Army officers in the corps of engineers to head the branch will be announced soon, special equipment will be sent to the campus by the war department, and organization will be effected in time for work to get under way when academic work begins Monday, September 23, Dr. Smith said.

From one-fourth to one-third of the university cadets, those enrolled in the college of engineering, will be detailed to the new unit. There will be specialized training in the last two, or advanced course, years and some slight difference from the infantry course in the first two years, or basic course, Lieut. Col. Troy H. Middleton, commandant of cadets at the university, explained.

This expansion in the cadet corps, which has operated as an infantry unit only, marks a significant advance in military training at the university, Colonel Middleton said. Henceforth students in engineering will be able to work towards reserve commissions in the army branch for which their academic training renders them especially fitted.

If you feel tired, run-down, nervous and out of sorts

—there is usually a definite reason for this

Now let's reason sensibly.

Don't try to get well in a day . . . this is asking too much of Nature. Remember, she has certain natural processes that just cannot be hurried.

But there is a certain scientific way you can assist by starting those digestive juices in the stomach to flowing more freely and at the same time supply a balanced mineral deficiency the body needs.

Therefore, if you are pale, tired and run-down . . . a frequent sign that your blood-cells are weak—then do try in the simple, easy way so many millions approve—by starting a course of S.S.S. Blood Tonic.

Much more could be said—a trial will thoroughly convince you that this way, in the absence of any organic trouble, will start you on the road of feeling like yourself again. © S.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. TONIC makes you feel like yourself again

You are invited to listen in every Friday night to a program of old-fashioned music—S.S.S. Music Box Hour—over Mutual Broadcasting Network, 9:30 p. m., E.S.T.

MEET THE WILKEN FAMILY

That's me over to the left—and I'm holding a picture of my father, Harry Wilken the first, and a first-rate distiller if there ever was one. William's the one in the middle—you can't find a better warehouse man than Will anywhere. And Harry Jr. is a crackerjack at distilling. William and Harry are my own boys.

Harry E. Wilken, Sr.

Yes sir, my dad, Harry Wilken the first, was making whiskey way back in 1886, and what knack I've got in making whiskey smooth and mild, I guess I owe to him. He put me to work in '92, just like I've been teaching my own boys everything I know about distilling.

So when you taste this Wilken Family Whiskey, you're going to enjoy everything that three generations of this distilling family ever picked up in all their experience.

Seeing I've turned out some million or so barrels of whiskey, I've naturally picked up a thing or two that'll make whiskey quite a bit tastier and smoother than you'd find under ordinary conditions. The fact is—even if it's me that shouldn't mention it—folks are saying they never yet tasted whiskey, at any price, so mild and smooth as this whiskey of ours!

Harry Wilken Sr.
